AMERICAN SAYS JAPANESE HALT SIBERIAN TRADE

Tells How Pretexes Are Used To Block And Obstruct Shipments

VLADIVOSTOK FILTHY

Only Withdrawal Of Troops Will Revive Business, He Tells Dalta

(Dalta News Agency)

The following interview was given to the Dalta Agency here by an American recently returned from Vladivostok:

"When I left Vladivostok, about a week ago, the 'coup' had not yet taken place. There were, however, rumors from day to day, and continual denials from the organization of non-socialistic groups that anything of the sort was contemplated. The President of this organization is now at the head of the new government. Trade at Vladivostok is at a standstill, notwithstanding great stocks of wares in the storehouses.

"Trade of any sort with Siberia is hindered on every sort of pretext, and to all purposes prevented by the Japanese. No goods that by any possibility could be used for war purposes are allowed to proceed beyond Nikolai-Ussuri. For every car that leaves the occupied territory—for in all but name it is occupation—a car must be returned. Carloads of goods are delayed for days for inspection. Other cars are detained and then sent back by 'mistake.' Cars are even conveniently uncompleted, and left, and the same excuse given 'mistake.'

MANY OBSTACLES

"In fact, the transporting of goods by commercial firms is subject to all imaginable inconvenience. A familiar sight on the streets was an automobile carrying five or six men dressed in grey, with pointed hoods that completely covered their faces. These were the men who were on their way to disinfest houses where plague had been found. When a house is reported as infected it is isolated and militiamen stand guard in the street to prevent anyone from approaching. The plague was taking about twenty victims a day when I left.

"The local government seemed to be without funds, but was doing all in its power in the face of the restrictions of every sort which were placed on activity of all kinds by the Japanese. The latest demand was for an audit of government expenditures by the Japanese Consul-General. Not long ago the government was 'informed' that the fisheries at the mouth of the Amur river would henceforth be under the control of the Japanese Military command. At the same time Japanese business men are presenting proposals for exploiting the best timber lands in the Priamur Province. It seems very probable that the Japanese want they will try to obtain through the setting up of a government nominally Russian but subservient to the power that creates it, in the Eastern Province. In one of Semenoff's camps are even now displayed the Japanese flag and the Russian-White-Crossed.

LARGE PROBLEM

The problem in Eastern Siberia, however, is part of a larger problem. In its larger aspect it takes in Saghalien, certain islands in the Pacific, and Shantung. It is the problem of Japan's expanding and growing power. The control of this province would make the Japan sea a closed sea, adding greatly to Japan's security. It would serve furthermore as a land base for any military operations that might be undertaken in the continent. From Northern Saghalien, of course, would come coal and oil for her navy.

"The condition of the streets in Vladivostok and the shocking accumulations of filth in the yards are enough to give the lie to the Japanese pretensions that they wish only to assist the Russians to set up a competent government. At night the streets are dark, and very few people venture abroad. Nominally, the Japanese command preserves a correct attitude of impartiality toward the different political groups.

"The flow of commodities into and out of the port has stopped. With this cessation of activity, the life of the city decays, and lapses into a slough of plotting, poverty, and intrigue. There is no doubt, and it is everywhere admitted, that the withdrawal of the Japanese troops would bring life to trade and legitimate industry.

Col. Harvey Assailed By Senator As Envoy

SENATOR Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, who, in a speech in the Senate, made a fiery denunciation of the appointment of Colonel George Harvey as Ambassador to Great Britain, Senator Harrison said: "There never was such an intolerant and unfit individual in all the history of mankind by training, temperament and environment, to take up the important duties of our representative at the Court of St. James than Colonel Harvey." He bitterly condemned Colonel Harvey for the latter's criticisms of former President Wilson.

NO 'FEELERS' SENT TO ENGLAND ON DISARMING PLAN

French Attitude Is "Preparation Until Danger From East Is Over"

New York, June 2.—According to advices from London it is stated in official circles there that England has not received any "feelings" which were reported to have been put out by Washington regarding the reduction of armaments. "It was said however, that Great Britain would sympathize with any movement tending to promote world peace and would welcome any suggestion by the United States in this connection.

Paris advices state that the French Foreign Office denies any knowledge of America's plan to take up the question of the reduction of armaments. The French attitude is that France must remain prepared until the danger from the East has been removed.

Dominion Premiers To Decide On Stand To Be Taken

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 2.—At question-time in the House of Commons today, Mr. T. P. O'Connor asked whether the Government would include the subject of Irish Home Rule in the Agenda of the Imperial Premiers' Conference, in view of the prejudicial influence of the Irish situation on the internal conditions of the Dominions, as expressed in votes of their legislatures, and in view of the suggestion in the speech of General Smuts that the Government might give the Dominions an opportunity of discussing this question.

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary for the Colonies (Major Wood) replied that the agenda lay solely at the discretion of the conference itself, and while the Irish question was technically one of domestic politics in the United Kingdom, the Government would raise no objection if the conference desired to include the question in its discussions.

London, June 3.—A police patrol of seventeen men ambushed at Carrow-Kennedy, West Cork, last evening. Nine police were killed, including an inspector and a sergeant, and four were seriously injured. A hundred Sinn Féiners took part in the ambush and captured arms and ammunition and burned three motor cars.

American Women Entertain Sailors Of Huron At Dance

The sailors of the U.S.S. Huron and other navy men in port proved that they were good navigators last night by guiding their partners over the floor of the Town Hall with a minimum of head-on collisions and damaged propellers. To the music furnished by the Huron's band and orchestra, several hundred couples danced for four hours and then topped off the evening with refreshments gauged to fit the average sailor's capacity.

Though the dancing began at 8:00 p.m., it was ten o'clock when Captain H. I. Cone of the U.S.S. Huron and Mrs. Cone led the grand march. Also prominent in the line were Captain L. Schiff of the Italian battleship, "Ermanno Carletto," and a number of American officers. After each line of marchers had stretched out to eight couples, the gobs, entirely framed by ladies, smiled at a camera and dared the flashlight to do its worst.

Last night's dance was given especially in honor of the American Women's Club and the Women's Overseas League, both of which organizations have frequently entertained the navy men. General arrangements were made by the ship's entertainment committee, consisting of R. D. Larkin, C. Glasman, G. L. Sullivan, and W. D. Hawkes. Mr. L. Sexton was chairman of the committee on refreshments, while Mr. M. N. Smith superintended the decorations.

War Criminal Gets Two Months In Pen

(Reuter's Service)

Leipzig, June 2.—Robert Neumann, who was the third war criminal to be tried, has been convicted on a charge of ill-treating prisoners of war in a labor camp near Stettin, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Four months which he had already spent in custody is included in the sentence. The Public Prosecutor asked for a sentence of eighteen months.

LAUNDRY STRIKE COMES TO AN END, OTHER CONTINUES

Builders' Walk-Out Extends To Settlement, But Hope Is Seen

WASHMEN GET RAISE

Compromise With Employers On Demands At Meeting Last Evening

The laundrymen's strike, which by noon yesterday had affected some 2,000 workers and was viewed with grave apprehension by local authorities as well as by the community at large, came to an unexpected settlement last evening after a meeting of employers' and workers' representatives at the Ningpo Association, building in Lloyd Road.

The strikers promised to return to their tasks today.

The solution was arrived at on a basis of compromise after each side had declared its utter inability to meet the other's terms. By the terms of agreement the men receive, as the principal conditions, a wage increase of approximately 20 percent, a half-day off each week with full pay and certain concessions with regard to the employment of apprentice labor. In turn they have agreed to waive a number of the 20-odd stipulations drawn up by the Washermen's Guild concerning national holidays, overtime and so forth.

The carpenters' and masons' strike continues and is gaining in extent but with the breaking of the laundrymen's deadlock the situation is seen in a more hopeful light, since the latter was held to present much greater difficulty in the way of solution.

The builders' strike began eating its way into the Settlement yesterday. Heretofore it has been largely confined to Frenchtown and the districts surrounding the Municipal area. Yesterday disaffection made itself apparent through the laying down of tools in several of the districts within the Settlement limits and last night it was estimated that in all about 3,000 workers have ceased their labors in an effort to secure wage increases approximating 50 percent of their present pay.

SETTLEMENT MEN OUT

Carpenters, masons and sawyers in the Hongkew, Wayside and Victoria Road districts dropped tools yesterday morning, to the number of several hundred, but these were practically all workers engaged in Chinese building operations. Those employed on foreign jobs have not quit work as yet, though there are indications that efforts are being made to get them to walk out.

The Central district, with its numerous big building projects in course of completion, is untouched, as yet and it is hoped that there will be no trouble. But here also efforts have been made by strikers and agitators to enlist the aid of the men employed. At one large new building in the Central district yesterday morning several men appeared with handbills, urging the workmen to cease their labors and stand out for better pay and improved working conditions. So far as could be noticed, however, the appeal had little effect.

In Hongkew district building work began as usual yesterday morning but at about 9:30 o'clock signs of disaffection became apparent at various points and between 200 and 300 men quit work.

During the morning there were rumors that the parties were in the way to a compromise, but in the afternoon this hope faded once more. Groups of strikers went about haphazard and there was evidently a serious misunderstanding about conferences arranged between employers and men, for the meetings were not held.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION

It is felt, however, that the builders' strike will be brought to an end without much further difficulty, since their demands are of a much more compact and debatable character than were those of the laundrymen, the latter covering over 20 different points. The settling of the washermen's strike, too, has brought relief from the fear that there would be an effort to consolidate the two and bring in other labor classes as well in a widespread sympathetic demonstration.

Further conferences between representatives of the disagreeing parties are to be held today.

THREE STRIKERS FINED

Three carpenters charged with intimidating fellow workers in the Bubbling Well district were brought into the Mixed Court yesterday and fined $7 each with the alternative of a week's imprisonment. Inspector Foley and Detective Sergeant Yorke testified.

Vladivostok, June 3.—Ataman Semenoff arrived here today on board the Klodo Maru.

An anti-Communist rising is reported in the Balkan region, and the railway at present is operating only as far as Verkhne-Udinsk. Further west traffic is interrupted, owing to rebels holding the line. The movement is growing.

Five Generations In One Chicago Family

It is only once in a great while that folks live long enough to see their grandchildren have grandchildren. But Mrs. Sarah Connetton, of Darlington, Staffordshire, England, who is now making her home in Chicago, comes of a family blessed with unusual longevity. Mrs. Connetton recently celebrated her eighty-seventh birthday, and on that occasion posed for this unusual photograph with her daughter, granddaughter, her great-granddaughter and her great-grandson. From left to right in the photograph are Mrs. W. H. Stutsman, mother of the baby boy; Mrs. Frank Clark, his grandmother; Mrs. William Bailey, his great-grandmother, and Mrs. Connetton, his great-great-grandmother.

Premier's Compromise Policy Wins At Peking

(By a Staff Correspondent)

Peking, June 1.—Premier Chin Yun-peng's policy of compromise appears to have prevailed, for the time being, in politico-military circles, and in consequence the moves made the past week have been toward the end of stabilizing the various balances of power and consolidating the new cabinet.

The most important development has been the easing of the tensions between Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin. Although the latter party received face from the government, the real victory in the struggle has gone to Wu Pei-fu, who has had his way in eliminating so far as Presidential mandate is concerned, Chen Shu-fan from Shensi, and securing the appointment of General Yen, his own man, to the Tsuchun-ships of that province. This knocks in the head Chang Tso-lin's scheme of establishing an offset to Wu's power in Shan, and, on the contrary, adds the province of Shensi to Wu's sphere of control. Whether Chen Shu-fan will make a stand against the government mandate and Wu's armies, or not is uncertain at the moment, but it is generally believed that he will retire gracefully with the odds against him are too great.

The Shensi Civil Governor, Liu Chen-hua, a Hunan man, who has made rather unsuccessful attempts at friendship with Wu, still remains in office, but he is likely to be superseded soon by a protégé of Wu's. With Chen, and perhaps Liu, gone, the internal strife in Shensi is likely to come to an end, as the opposition chiefs of the so-called "Southern" Army under Yue Yu-ren and Hu Li-seng, and of Kuo Chien's forces, will not be prevented by any old grudges from making friends with the new regime, and accepting offices under it.

KINGDOM FOR CHANG

Chang Tso-lin, on the other hand, has been conferred the Supreme Inspector-Generalship of Inner and Outer Mongolia, excepting the territories of Jehol, Chahar and Suiyuan. He is thus given a kingdom, which may be his, if he can conquer it or, what is more likely, win it by wile.

In addition, he has been given the satisfaction of placing his man, Chang Hual-chih, former Tsuchun of Shantung, and late Chief of College of Generals, in Kansu—that is, if the Kansuities will permit him to enter their country and rule over them. The victory of Wu Pei-fu and the Chihli party over Chang is seen, however, in the fact that the special administrative territories of Inner Mongolia have not been placed under the Fengtien chief's control as he desired. This probably means that Ma Fu-hiang will take over in Suiyuan shortly, and the entire upper Yellow River valley will be under control of the Mohammedan troops. With Wu Pei-fu holding the Shan route and Ma Fu-hiang the only other route—the Yellow River route—to Kansu, Chang Tso-lin's prospective influence in that province is considerably at the mercy of men who have no desire to assist its expansion.

BOTH SATISFIED

However, Chang Tso-lin has put on the air of satisfaction, and Wu Pei-fu is most assuredly satisfied. The much-prophesied early-summer inter-Tsuchun scrap has at least been much postponed.

In the Cabinet, too, changes looking toward stabilization have been made. (We may call a Chinese Cabinet stable if it has the prospects of lasting a few months.) Li Shih-wei has, as predicted, definitely refused to undertake the Ministry of Finance, probably because of the lack of any real prospect of a Japanese loan. Pan Yu, vice-minister, bonhomme and henchman of Chin Yun-peng, has been "purposely" to take over the ministry, concurrently with his Salt Commissionership. Li Chih, former provincial treasurer of Shantung, is to be vice-minister, making the Treasury a Shantung institution throughout. Since Pan Yuan-lun shows no inclination to return to the Educational Ministry, the latest nominee for vice-minister, Ma Lin-yi, former Educational Commissioner of Chihli province, has been asked to bear the duties of acting-minister. He is expected in Peking after the Teachers' and Students' demonstrations, scheduled for the end of this week, have cooled off.

Saghalien Island Offered To Japan By Russia, Report

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 2.—According to a Helsingfors telegram, it is reported in Communist circles in Eastern Siberia that the Moscow Government has offered to cede to Japan the island of Saghalien and the adjacent coastal area, on condition that Japan concludes a commercial treaty with Russia.

Kellogg Has Bill To Nullify States' Alien Legislation

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 2.—In the Senate today, Senator Kellogg introduced a bill authorizing the President to maintain, through the Federal Courts or otherwise, the rights of aliens, irrespective of existing State laws. The bill specifically permits the use of the Army and Navy to enforce the rulings of the court. It is understood that the provisions of the bill might be available in cases arising from a State statute, such as the California Land Law.

GERMANY SOUGHT TO DUPE ALLIES, SAYS HARDEN

Noted Editor Makes Numerous Noteworthy Admissions

LAUDS DR. WIRTH

Belgium's Foreign Minister Approves Berlin's Course

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 2.—The Excelsior publishes some noteworthy admissions made by Herr Maximilian Harden, the famous German publicist, and editor of Die Zukunft. Herr Harden recognizes that the various German Governments have often been lacking in frankness, and have tried to deceive the Allies.

He admits that France has never sought to menace Germany, whereas the tortuous policy of Germany tends to exasperate French sentiments. France is not a militarist nation, and her victorious Marshals are less acclaimed than the defeated Marshals of Germany. France suffered during the war, and now, he says, it is Germany's turn to suffer. Herr Harden expresses his confidence in the Wirth Cabinet, which he regards as composed of men of good will.

ANSWERS FILED BY DEFENDANTS IN SHAW SUIT

Mr. Patrick Gallagher And Mr. George Bronson Rea Reply To Allegations Made

Mr. Patrick Gallagher, former Editor of the Far Eastern Review, and Mr. George Bronson Rea, publisher of that periodical, have filed separate answers in the United States Court for China to the $50,000 damage suit brought against them by Mr. George L. Shaw of Antung.

The suit, which was filed February 18 last, is based upon an article that was published by the Far Eastern Review in its September issue of last year. The article in question appeared under the name of Mr. Gallagher, then editor, and carried the title "Asiatic Sinn Féin." In his petition, Mr. Shaw, who is a British subject and long has held a prominent place in commercial activities in north China, asserts that in the publication he is held up to contempt and made to appear as an enemy to his own country. He is represented by Mr. S. Fessenden.

Following filing of the action Mr. Gallagher, who had then severed his connection with the Far Eastern Review and who was represented by Mr. P. M. Linestager, filed a motion seeking to have the suit against him separated from that filed against Mr. Rea. This motion was denied by Judge C. S. Lobingier and a demurrer to Mr. Shaw's petition that was subsequently filed also was overruled by Judge Lobingier.

The article that Mr. Shaw contends is libellous centers largely upon alleged activities of Mr. Shaw in connection with the Korean movement for independence and in the answer that Mr. Gallagher has made to the suit he asserts that Mr. Shaw did associate himself with that political movement at the times covered in the publication.

Mr. Gallagher says further that the article complained of was written in good faith under the honest belief in the truth of what was set forth and without malice.

Mr. Gallagher in his answer says further that the publication was a fair and true statement of circumstances attending the conduct of Mr. Shaw as reported from various sources and adds that Mr. Shaw's name was mentioned as a mere item of casual public news. In the answer Mr. Gallagher is represented by Mr. Lineberger and Mr. F. J. Schuhl.

In the answer to the suit filed by Mr. Rea through his attorney, Mr. R. T. Bryan of Fleming, Davies and Bryan he denies a number of the allegations contained in Mr. Shaw's petition. Mr. Rea asserts that he was away from Shanghai at the time the article was written and published and asserts that the publication of it was done without his knowledge or consent.

An affidavit that was filed on April 27 last in connection with the suit by Mr. Paul Walker Cotton, who then was about to sail for the United States, says that it was a matter of common knowledge and report in Antung and northern China that Mr. Shaw had been identified with the Korean independence movement. Mr. Cotton, who is a salesman and lived for a considerable period of time in Harbin, was acquainted with Mr. Shaw, he says in the affidavit, and he refers to a conversation he had with Mr. Shaw in which the latter is said to have admitted that he had been active in connection with the Korean movement.

Opium Mandate Issued At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

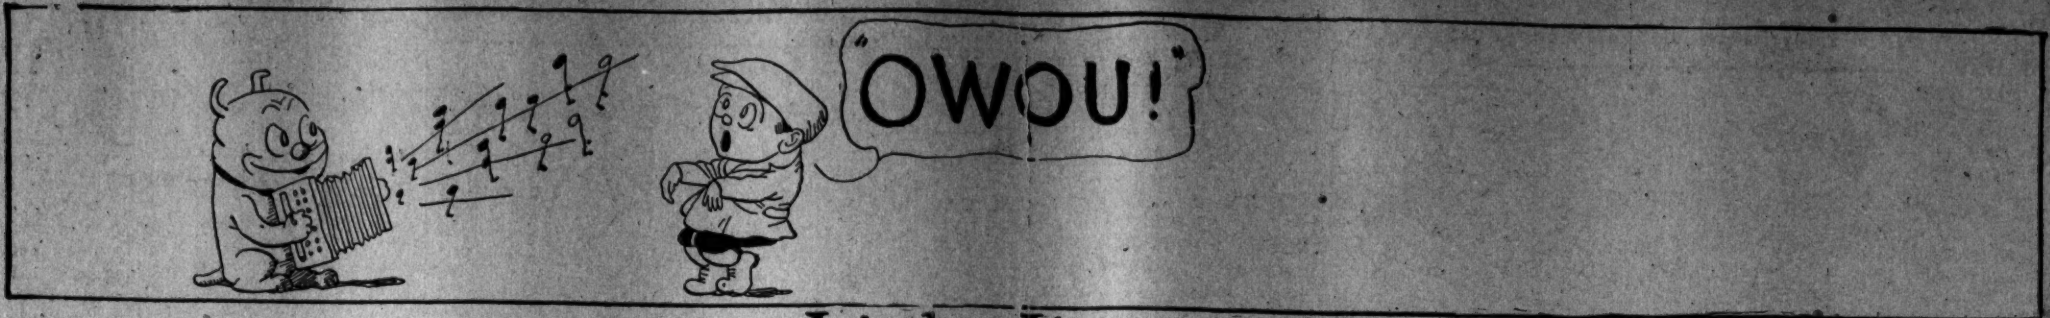

Peking, June 1.—A mandate was issued yesterday evening, drawing attention to the mandate issued last year, prohibiting all traffic in opium and other noxious drugs. The mandate points out that, owing to local disorganization, the former mandate has not been faithfully observed in some parts of the country, and emphasizes the Government's determination to see that it is strictly carried into effect in future.

The mandate adds that special commissioners will be sent to the provinces to enquire into the cultivation of poppy and the traffic in drugs, and threatens severe punishment for local officials who do not observe the anti-opium measures already introduced.

War Criminal Gets Two Months In Pen

(Reuter's Service)

Leipzig, June 2.—Robert Neumann, who was the third war criminal to be tried, has been convicted on a charge of ill-treating prisoners of war in a labor camp near Stettin, and sentenced to six months' imprisonment. Four months which he had already spent in custody is included in the sentence. The Public Prosecutor asked for a sentence of eighteen months.

LAUNDRY STRIKE COMES TO AN END, OTHER CONTINUES

Builders' Walk-Out Extends To Settlement, But Hope Is Seen

WASHMEN GET RAISE

Compromise With Employers On Demands At Meeting Last Evening

The laundrymen's strike, which by noon yesterday had affected some 2,000 workers and was viewed with grave apprehension by local authorities as well as by the community at large, came to an unexpected settlement last evening after a meeting of employers' and workers' representatives at the Ningpo Association building in Lloyd Road.

The strikers promised to return to their tasks today. The solution was arrived at on a basis of compromise after each side had declared its utter inability to meet the other's terms. By the terms of agreement the men receive, as the principal conditions, a wage increase of approximately 20 percent, a half-day off each week with full pay and certain concessions with regard to the employment of apprentice labor. In turn they have agreed to waive a number of the 20-odd stipulations drawn up by the Washermen's Guild concerning national holidays, overtime and so forth.

The carpenters' and masons' strike continues and is gaining in extent but with the breaking of the laundrymen's deadlock the situation is seen in a more hopeful light, since the latter was held to present much greater difficulty in the way of solution.

The builders' strike began eating its way into the Settlement yesterday. Heretofore it has been largely confined to Frenchtown and the districts surrounding the Municipal area. Yesterday disaffection made itself apparent through the laying down of tools in several of the districts within the Settlement limits and last night it was estimated that in all about 3,000 workers have ceased their labors in an effort to secure wage increases approximating 50 percent of their present pay.

SETTLEMENT MEN OUT
Carpenters, masons and sawyers in the Hongkong Wayside and Victoria Road districts dropped tools yesterday morning, to the number of several hundred, but these were practically all workers engaged in Chinese building operations, those employed on foreign jobs have not quit work as yet, though there are indications that efforts are being made to get them to walk out.

The Central district, with its numerous big building projects in course of completion, is untouched as yet and it is hoped that there will be no trouble. But here also efforts have been made by strikers and agitators to enlist the aid of the men employed. At one large new building in the Central district yesterday morning several men appeared with handbills urging the workmen to cease their labors and stand out for better pay and improved working conditions. So far as could be noticed, however, the appeal had little effect.

In Hongkong district building work began as usual yesterday morning but at about 9:30 o'clock signs of disaffection became apparent at various points and between 200 and 300 men quit work.

During the morning there were rumors that the parties were in the way to a compromise, but in the afternoon the hope faded once more. Groups of strikers went about haphazard and there was evidently a serious misunderstanding about conferences arranged between employers and men, for the meetings were not held.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION

It is felt, however, that the builders' strike will be brought to an end without much further difficulty, since their demands are of a much more compact and debatable character than were those of the laundrymen, the latter covering over 20 different points. The settling of the washermen's strike, too, has brought relief from the fear that there would be an effort to consolidate the two and bring in other labor classes as well in a widespread sympathetic demonstration.

Further conferences between representatives of the disagreeing parties are to be held today.

THREE STRIKERS FINED

Three carpenters charged with intimidating fellow workers in the Bubbling Well district were brought into the Mixed Court yesterday and fined $7 each with the alternative of a week's imprisonment. Inspector Foley and Detective Sergeant York testified.

Premier's Compromise Policy Wins At Peking

(By a Staff Correspondent)

Peking, June 1.—Premier Chin Yun-peng's policy of compromise appears to have prevailed, for the time being, in politico-military circles, and in consequence the moves made the past week have been toward the end of stabilizing the various balances of power and consolidating the new cabinet. The most important development has been the easing of the tensions between Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin. Although neither party received face from the government, the real victory in the struggle was gone to Wu Pei-fu, who has had the satisfaction of compelling the Fengtien lord to recognize that "the subordinate military officer" at Honanfu is a factor of the first magnitude.

Pei-fu has had his way in eliminating, so far as Presidential mandate is concerned, Chen Shu-fan from Shensi, and securing the appointment of General Yen, his own man, to the Tsuchun-shi of that province. This knocks the head of Chang Tso-lin's scheme of establishing an offset to Wu's power in Shan, and, on the contrary, adds the province of Shensi to Wu's sphere of control. Whether Chen Shu-fan will make a stand against the government mandate and Wu's armies, or not is uncertain at the moment, but it is generally believed that he will retire gracefully with much plunder, realizing that the odds against him are too great.

The Shensi Civil Governor, Liu Chen-hua, a Hunan man, who has made rather unsuccessful attempts at friendship with Wu, still remains in office, but he is likely to be superseded soon by a protégé of Wu's. With Chen, and perhaps Liu, gone, the internal strife in Shensi is likely to come to an end, as the opposition chiefs of the so-called "Southern" Army under Yue Yu-ten and Hu Li-seng, and of Kuo Chien's forces, will not be prevented by any old grudges from making friends with the new regime, and accepting offices under it.

KINGDOM FOR CHANG

Chang Tso-lin, on the other hand, has been conferred the Supreme Inspector-Generalship of Inner and Outer Mongolia, excepting the territories of Jehol, Chahar and Suiyuan. He is thus given a kingdom, which may be his, if he can conquer it or, what

Saghalien Island Offered To Japan By Russia, Report

London, June 2.—According to a Helsinki telegram, it is reported in Communist circles in Eastern Siberia that the Moscow Government has offered to cede to Japan the island of Saghalien and the adjacent coastal area, on condition that Japan conclude a commercial treaty with Russia.

Ataman Semenov In Vladivostok

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 2.—Ataman Semenov arrived here today on board the Kioto Maru.

An anti-Communist rising is reported in the Baikal region, and the railway at present is operating only as far as Verkhne-Udinsk. Further west traffic is interrupted, owing to rebels holding the line. The movement is growing.

is more likely, win it by wile. In addition, he has been given the satisfaction of placing his man, Chang Hual-chih, former Chief of College of Generals, in the head of the Kan-su provinces, and will permit him to enter their country and rule over them. The victory of Wu Pei-fu and the Chihli party over Chang is seen, however, in the fact that the special administrative territories of Inner Mongolia have not been placed under the Fengtien chief's control as he desired. This probably means that Ma Fu-hsing will take over in Suiyuan shortly, and the entire upper Yellow River valley will be under control of the Mohammedan troops. With Wu Pei-fu holding the Shan route and Ma Fu-hsing the only other route—the Yellow River route—to Kansu, Chang Tso-lin's prospective influence in that province is considerably at the mercy of men who have no desire to assist its expansion.

BOTH SATISFIED

However, Chang Tso-lin has put on the air of satisfaction, and Wu Pei-fu is most assuredly satisfied. The much-prophesied early-summer inter-Tsuchun scrap has at least been much postponed.

In the Cabinet, too, changes looking toward stabilization have been made. (We may call a Chinese Cabinet stable if it has the prospects of lasting a few months.) Li Shih-wei has, as predicted, definitely refused to undertake the Ministry of Finance, probably because of the lack of any real prospect of a Japanese loan. Pan Yu, vice-Minister, bonhomme and henchman of Chin Yun-peng, has been "persuaded" to take over the ministry, concurrently with his Salt Commission. Li Chia, former provincial treasurer of Shantung, is to be vice-Minister, making the Treasury a Shantung institution throughout. Since Pan Yuan-shen shows no inclination to return to the Educational Ministry, the latest nominee for vice-Minister, Ma Lin-yi, former Educational Commissioner of Chihli province, has been asked to bear the duties of acting-Minister. He is expected in Peking after the Teachers' and Students' demonstrations, scheduled for the end of this week, have cooled off.

Kellogg Has Bill To Nullify States' Alien Legislation

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 2.—In the Senate today, Senator Kellogg introduced a bill authorizing the President to maintain, through the Federal Courts or otherwise, the rights of aliens, irrespective of existing State laws. The bill specifically permits the use of the Army and Navy to enforce the rulings of the court. It is understood that the provisions of the bill might be available in cases arising from a State statute, such as the California Land Law.

GERMANY SOUGHT TO DUPE ALLIES, SAYS HARDEN

Noted Editor Makes Numerous Noteworthy Admissions

LAUDS DR. WIRTH

Belgium's Foreign Minister Approves Berlin's Course

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, June 2.—The Excelsior publishes some noteworthy admissions made by Herr Maximilian Harden, the famous German publicist, and editor of Die Zukunft. Herr Harden recognizes that the various German Governments have often been lacking in frankness, and have tried to deceive the Allies.

He admits that France has never sought to menace Germany, whereas the tortuous policy of Germany tends to exasperate French sentiments. France is not a militarist nation, and her victorious Marshals are less acclaimed than the defeated Marshals of Germany. France suffered during the war, and now, he says, it is Germany's turn to suffer. Herr Harden expresses his confidence in the Wirth Cabinet, which he regards as composed of men of good will.

(Reuter's Service)

Vienna, June 2.—Dr. Wirth, the German Chancellor, has urgently requested the Austrian Government to do everything in its power to prevent further plebiscites in Austria on the question of union with Germany. He declared that, apart from the result of the plebiscite, the completion of the economic organization of Upper Silesia was such that any partition would involve the ruin of those parts which were cut off.

Paris, May 28.—The Reparations Commission has appointed the members to the Guarantees Committee which is entrusted with the supervision of the payment of the German reparations indemnity.

The French delegate, M. Maucier, has been elected chairman of the Committee.

Paris, May 28.—Admiral Lord Beatty has arrived in Paris on a visit, and will lunch with the Minister of the Navy today.

Paris, May 28.—The President of the Marseilles Chamber of Commerce has addressed a letter to the British press, urging that the widely circulated motto "Peace above all," should be "Peace, with due guarantees, above all."

Brussels, June 2.—The growing satisfaction of Allied statesmen as the result of Germany's recent performances was voiced by the Foreign Minister, M. Jaspar, speaking in the Chamber today. He declared that if Germany continued in the path of goodwill, of which she had given the first proof, Belgium would not make her task difficult.

M. Jaspar noted the improvement in the European atmosphere, and advocated an alliance among Great Britain, France and Italy. The Beigo-Dutch difficulty, he said, was still unsolved, but he hoped that relations would soon be restored to normal in view of Holland's kindness to Belgian refugees.

Opium Mandate Issued At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 1.—A mandate was issued yesterday evening, drawing attention to the mandate issued last year, prohibiting all traffic in opium and other noxious drugs. The mandate points out that, owing to local disorganization, the former mandate has not been faithfully observed in some parts of the country, and emphasizes the Government's determination to see that it is strictly carried into effect in future.

The mandate adds that special commissioners will be sent to the provinces to enquire into the cultivation of poppy and the traffic in drugs, and threatens severe punishment for local officials who do not observe the anti-opium measures already introduced.

SCHOOL PUPILS WILL HEAR TALKS BY PHILATELISTS

Plan To Encourage Youthful
Collectors Is Approved
By Local Society

The last meeting of the Shanghai Philatelic Society for this season was held in the society's room, 5 Museum Road, at 5 p.m. on Wednesday.

After the current business of the society had been disposed of, Mr. W. C. Divers, Asst. Master of the Thomas Hambury School for Boys, suggested that a series of lectures on "Stamp Collecting," illustrated by appropriate lantern slides, be given by some of the members who were advanced philatelists, to the scholars of the various schools in Shanghai. He pointed out that many boys in these schools were enthusiastic collectors, but at present did not know how to arrange collection properly on scientific lines.

Mr. Divers said that he encouraged collecting stamps by the boys on account of the vast amount of knowledge to be derived from a study of over common stamps. Did not these bits of paper teach one a thousand and one interesting facts connected with history, geography, the industries, manners, customs of many races, and the flora and fauna of most countries?

Philately was becoming daily a more intricate science, he said involving exhaustive studies in useful subjects, such as the manufacture and texture of paper, the composition of colors, the various processes of engraving, printing and lithographing and many others. It was in this respect that the education of young collectors, the coming generation of philatelists, had in the past been sadly neglected by the older philatelists.

Mr. Divers' proposition was warmly approved of by all the members present as a move in the right direction. Mr. J. A. Smallbones, the Chairman of the society and a veteran philatelist ever ready to help and counsel the young collector, with his usual kindness at once offered his services for the purpose, and there is no doubt that other members in turn will come forward to contribute their share to such a laudable object.

It was decided to begin with the lectures some time in October and after their conclusion that the scholars be asked to send in their collections to the society for exhibition some time in December, when prizes would be awarded for those judged best by a committee of the society.

Laundry Strike Comes To An End, Other Continues

And that the men were members of a crowd which was seeking to compel builders in the district to lay down their tools. On the Magistrate's inquiry as to why they had gone about intimidating workmen one of the defendants replied that they were agitating for better pay. At the present time, he said, many of them received but 400 cash per day while the price of food was increasing steadily. The Magistrate told the three that while it was quite lawful for them to ask for increased wages they had no right to stop others who wanted to work.

Geddes Orator At Centennial Of Virginia University

(Reuter's Service)

Charlottesville, Va., June 2.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, in an address at the University of Virginia on the occasion of its centennial celebrations, urged the benefits of peace and the folly of war. Arguing from a scientific standpoint, he pointed out how wars tended to weaken and depreciate nations and cited the historic examples of Rome and France under Napoleon. He declared it was the duty of every University to implant in the minds of its students a real understanding of the cost of war.

Trade Emissary To Visit Canada

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 2.—Interest attaches to the forthcoming visit to Canada of Mr. Benjamin Howell Morgan, at whose suggestion it was that the Imperial Government appointed Permanent Imperial Trade Commissioners, and who is at present Chairman of the British Empire Producers' Organisation. The object of Mr. Morgan's impending visit is to discuss with large producing interests in Canada a scheme for extending their markets in Great Britain and other parts of the Empire.

It is feared that a number of industries in Canada have become entirely American in character which makes it increasingly difficult for British enterprise to participate in them. It is understood that, with a view to stimulating inter-Empire trade, representations are being made to obtain effective preferential arrangements between Canada and Australia.

S.V.C. Corps Orders

Routine Orders by Colonel R. Marr Johnson, C.M.G., D.S.O., Commandant, S.V.C., Shanghai, June 2, 1921.

No. 127. Mobilisation Manual. A new mobilisation manual has been printed and issued to all combatant officers of the Corps. The new issue, however, in no wise amends the extracts therefrom dealing with "Duties in Aid of the Civil Power," etc., contained in the brown-covered pamphlet issued to all N.C.O.'s and men. This pamphlet holds good but the date on the cover should be changed from "July, 1920" to "May, 1921."

No. 128. Abolition of special signal for mobilisation. The special signal of "fire bells rung rapidly and continuously" is abolished.

No. 129. Leave. 2nd Lieutenant J. Waddell, Machine Gun Company, is granted leave from 16.6.21 to 15.6.22.

No. 130. The following extracts from the Municipal Gazette of 2.6.21 are published for information:

Shanghai Scottish Company. Lieutenant W. A. Turnbull resigns his commission.

Captain A. S. Campbell, late Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, to be Lieutenant.

Portuguese Company. Lieutenant E. dos S. Carneiro resigns his commission and in consideration of long and valued services in the Corps is granted the honorary rank of Lieutenant on retirement with permission to wear uniform.

No. 131. Drill Hall. The Drill Hall is allotted to the Chinese Company from 6 a.m. to 8 a.m. daily (except Sundays) from June 6, 1921 to September 30, 1921 inclusive.

No. 132. Appointment Warrant Officer. Company Sergeant-Major B. Z. Loh, Chinese Company, is appointed Warrant Officer Class II with seniority and effect from 9.10.20.

No. 133. Officers summer mess dress. The same trousers or overalls will be worn as in winter mess dress, i.e. the only changes from winter to summer dress will be (i) white jacket, (ii) soft shirt. The Corps tailor is now ready to make white mess jackets at $5.00 each.

No. 134. Officers mess dinners. In future, these will be held as a matter of course on the first Wednesday in each month. During the summer months the hour will be 8.30 p.m.

Commandant S.V.C.

LOCKS HUSBAND IN TRUNK

Baltimore Wife Takes Novel Method for Disciplining

Baltimore, May 1.—Mrs. Catherine Levandowski did not like the argument her husband, Ludwig, advanced against the complaint she made of his attentions to another woman who was an excellent home brewer, and she told him so last night, whereupon he kicked her on the shins. As he did so he lost his balance, and his wife, taking advantage of the circumstances, toppled him into a trunk that stood open behind him. Following this triumph Mrs. Levandowski shut the lid, locked the trunk and threw away the key. She then ran into the street, crying "Police! Murder!"

Patrolman Andrews, who was attracted to the scene, was seized by the excited Mrs. Levandowski, who in her native tongue told him the story.

Andrews entered the house, expecting to find Ludwig smashing the furniture. He searched high and low, without result, until he was attracted by a tapping sound and concluded that Ludwig was in the trunk.

He tried to open it, but in vain. Then began a search for the key. It was finally located, while Ludwig was losing consciousness slowly. He was hauled out a limp and broken man.

This morning the Levandowskis told their story in the Police Court. Magistrate Seltzer thought Levandowski had been sufficiently punished and dismissed him with a warning to avoid women and home brew.

School For Card Players

AUCTION BRIDGE

Question: The dealer having bid a heart, second and third hand passing, the fourth hand bids two hearts. The opponents insist that this cannot be done, and that the fourth hand must bid some other suit or double, as the laws do not allow him to bid higher, in the opponent's suit.—
B. L. H.

Answer:—There is no restriction as to the denomination of any call, so that it is a better bid than the previous bid. If one player bids a heart and one of his opponents thinks he can make two odd with hearts for trumps, he can bid it. Suppose second hand had bid two clubs, and his partner's best suit was hearts, having no clubs, why should he not bid two hearts?

Question: Where can one get the full text of the new laws for 1921?—K. C. C.

Address the secretary of The Whist Club, 13 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York. The price is 50 cents a copy.

Question: The dealer bids a spade, second hand passes and third hand holds queen, nine, six of spades, four hearts to the king, four clubs to the king and king and one diamond, on which he bids one no-trump. The dealer bets he should have passed.—
E. L. M.

Answer:—The no-trump bid denies the spades, as if the third hand had no assistance for that suit, whereas he has more than average help, and should have passed. It is not only a bad bid, but a very poor no-trump.

Question: The bid is spades, and dummy wins the first trick with the ace of hearts. Trumps are then led once, and the declarer announces that he wins all the rest of the tricks, laying his cards on the table. The leader's partner still has a small trump, and demands that the declarer lead a heart, as this player has no heart and can ruff. The declarer says his cards cannot be called.—
G. W. L.

Answer: The declarer is correct. As long as the declarer can win all the rest of the tricks, without taking any finesse, he can play his cards as he pleases.

POKER
Question:—A asks for four cards in the draw, and picks them up one at a time as they are dealt to him. On getting the third in his hand he finds that he did not discard four, and has his full complement, so he says he does not want the fourth card laid off for him.

A COMMON COMPLAINT AMONG SAILORS

is Constipation because of the lack of fresh fruit and vegetables in their diet. To them, as to everyone else troubled by constive bowels, Pinkettes are a blessing, because they gently dispel constipation, and cure the ailments which it causes, such as liverishness, bilious attacks, sick headaches, dizziness, foul breath, pimply and blotched skin.

Pinkettes are tiny but thorough, act as gently as nature, and thus are laxative perfection for both sexes. Drugists sell them, or sent post free at 60 cents the vial, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

MADAME KELVEY'S PUPILS TO APPEAR AT BENEFIT TODAY

A matinee entertainment for the benefit of the Foreign Women's Home will be given by Madame Kelvey's dancing pupils in the Olympic Theater at five o'clock this afternoon. The program, which consists of twenty-three numbers, includes everything from an elaborate Oriental dance to a Highland Fling. Special attention has been given to setting and costumes.

All the proceeds with the exception of rent for the theater, will be paid into the treasury of the Foreign Women's Home, as the performers are all volunteers. The entertainment is being sponsored by the British Women's Association, the Social Service Department of the American Woman's Club and the Directors of the Foreign Women's Home.

The following pupils of Mme. Kelvey will participate: Francis Shroter, Doreen Lent, Barbara Ford, Mary Crane, Barbara Bernard, Florrie Field, David Crane, Ada Trueman, Nellie Field, Laura Chieri, Matilda Chieri, Peggy Crane, Clay Crane, Irene Quelch, Constance Corneek, Rosie George, Italia Chieri, Fanny Byssins, Eva Yvonne, Leonora, Bernard, Beatrice, White, Olive Crane, Ruth Raven, Dorothy Gray, Yvonne Guiknard, Philip Corneek and Kathleen Wilder. Mrs. J. Foster will play a piano overture.

Community Church Services Sunday

Children's Day on Sunday will be observed by the Community Church at a special service to be held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon at the Masonic Temple. This will open with scripture reading by Doctor Parker and prayer by Bishop Birney followed by a program of songs, recitations and hymns after which the presentation of certificates and bibles will be made by Doctor Freeman.

The morning service will take place at 11 o'clock at the Columbia Country Club and the sermon subject will be "The Debt of the Parent to the Child." Sunday School will be held at 9:30 o'clock in the morning at the Union Church Hall.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

Paris, June 2.—The Japanese Crown Prince, who was accompanied by Viscount Ishii, Japanese Ambassador, this morning laid a wreath on the grave of the "unknown warrior" at the Arc de Triomphe. The wreath bore the inscription "To an unknown soldier—a pious souvenir." In the course of an eloquent address, His Imperial Highness referred to it as "a token of homage and admiration from the whole Japanese people." "The French soldier," he said, "not only served the sacred cause of national defense, but also championed the ideal of peace and justice, which, passing beyond frontiers, was intended in his mind to spread to all parts of the world. Japan could not resist such a strong flame, for she is also a center where patriotic feeling and respect for justice are combined in equal degree.

"Thus the two nations fought for a common cause," but, in order not to render vain the immense sacrifice which this grave symbolizes in its touching simplicity, peace must be assured—a peace which will unite under equitable laws the nations, now better informed of their duties, and less exacting of their rights."

The Temps, commenting on the Crown Prince's visit, remarks: "Japan has before her a mission, the importance of which is now being realized, provided she is content to rule the waters that surround her, and does not succumb to the temptation to embark on the mighty ocean."

This afternoon Prince Hirohito visited the Eiffel Tower, and inspected the wireless installation there.

Peking-Mukden Rail Loan Signed

The loan for laying the double track on part of the Peking-Mukden line has been signed. It became known today. The loan which is named partly in Peking currency and partly in British pounds, totals $2,000,000 and bears 8 percent interest. Interest only will be paid the first year and after that the principal will be paid in installments. The securities are the bonds of the Peking-Mukden, Shanghai-Hankow and Hu Feng Railroad lines. The first bear 5 percent and the last 6 percent interest. The Government is to secure any amount not deemed to be sufficiently covered by these securities.

STRIKE SETTLED

New York, June 2.—The strike in the clothing industries, which has lasted since December, and involved 65,000 persons, has been settled on terms of a 15 percent reduction in the wages of all classes of employees except cutters, whose wages will be graded. Future disputes will be referred to a board of arbitration.

Admiral Strauss To Take River Trip

(China Press Correspondence) Peking, May 31.—Admiral Joseph Strauss will leave tomorrow for Shanghai. Immediately upon his arrival there he will be met by a gunboat of the American Yangtze River Patrol, and will take a trip up the river, probably several hundred miles north of Ichang, though not, it is said, as far as Chungking.

It is the desire of the Admiral to see for himself the difficulties of navigation in the famous Yangtze Gorges, and the trip above Ichang, where the Gorges begin, is for this purpose. Admiral Strauss will be back in Shanghai before the Fourth of July, when it is believed, he will rejoin the fleet at Chefoo.

Banker Slain In Yunnanfu After Feasting Friends

(China Press Correspondence) Yunnanfu, May 14.—Although Yunnanfu has had many a military expedition to the neighboring provinces, and engagements with her numerous brigands at home, peace and order has always been maintained at the capital. Content and ease is noticeable on the lines of peoples' faces. Those whom you meet will proudly tell you that there was nothing in the past, and therefore nothing in the future to aggravate this peaceful mountainous country. "Why," they say, "even during the three days between Old Tang's fleeing and Small Koo's arriving when troubles were most anxiously expected, nothing happened to keep us awake in the nights, or to give us indignation for swallowing too fast our meals."

Since yesterday's affair, wherever we go we find people in twos and threes, conferring and discussing at street corners, door ways, tea-shops, or at stores, with signs of anxiety on the faces. Something has happened; something has threatened to stir up the peoples' nests. It was a big thunder-storm followed with an assassination—the first one of the kind in ten or fifteen years. Koo Heng-sa, the Superintendent of Fu Tien Bank (the Yunnan Provincial Bank) invited many high-ups and friends to a banquet at the bank to celebrate his new appointment to the office of Commissioner of Finance. After feasting and seeing the guests off, he got into his chair to be carried home. Just as his chair was about two hundred yards from his own door, there was a thunder crash, quickly followed by a pistol shot.

The attendants immediately collared the assassin, but before they had time to take him away four soldiers, with drawn bayonets, came to his rescue. They got him off and ran away together.

Mr. Koo was one of the many in Yunnan that had risen from the peddler's class. His father was seen, and still recognised, peddling in the streets with his bean-shoots not many years ago. Koo himself being a special favorite of Old Tang was rapidly promoted. He was known as an exceptionally gifted man in business and was comparatively more honest than the others of his like. The public tells his loss keenly.

What concerns the public was not so much about the murder of Mr. Koo than about their own safety. Assassination like plague is contagious. When once discovered, it will be repeatedly resorted to as a means to get rid of personal or political enemies. It is predicted that henceforth the peace of the capital is broken.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Efficient Bathrooms

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

WHEREAS even so recently as twenty years ago comparatively few homes boasted of permanent plumbing and bath conveniences, to-day even the dwellings of the very plainest people are well supplied with bathing facilities. It is no longer a question of "to bath or not to bath." Hygiene and society both demand the daily scrub, and so we have reached a point where bathroom efficiency is more and more important.

The first fixture in the bathroom to have our notice is, probably the tub. How very far away the present enamel or porcelain tub is from the old time-lined, built-in wooden tub that may still be seen in many of the older houses! What a difference there is between our "open" or exposed plumbing and the boxed-in sinks and basins with their wooden fittings, which our mothers knew!

The best tub is made of the best quality porcelain or white enamel and is set directly on the floor. This model may be a trifle more expensive, but it is far more efficient. There is probably nothing more awkward to clean than the space under the tub that stands on short legs. Such a space is nothing but a trap for dust and dirt. The tooth-square edge of the efficient tub, which comes right down to the floor and, seems to be part of it, leaving no a crevice for dirt to accumulate.

The hand bowl has been perfected to a high degree. From an aesthetically point of view the pedestal bowl, with its long, column-like base and its square or oval basin is most attractive. Such bowls are fitted with combination faucets, which allow the water to come through either very hot or cold or tepid. Instead of the rather inefficient chain, which is always apt to get twisted, and the rubber plug which is always falling off, the newer bowls are fitted with a trap outlet, controlled by a button after the manner of the basins in the Pullman cars.

The toilet with the overhead water box is fast being replaced by kinds in which the flushing is done simply by the pressure of a lever. While many toilets are still seen in which wood is used for the seat, the most efficient and attractive looking ones have seats made of a kind of white porcelain or enamel baked in one piece and life of the same material. The wood seat is likely to crack and to become very discolored.

The modern medicine cabinet is very different from the old set of "shelves" on which the bottles and various things stood openly. The cabinet has become a part of the standard bathroom equipment, and the best kind is built into the wall or "recessed" so that the outer surface is flush with the wall. In this style it is fitted with a plate mirror, is preferably of enameled steel rather than wood, and has interchangeable shelves.

Instead of the old style nails or hooks on which to hang towels and cloths we now have instead various kinds of "bars" which permit the towel to be laid across so that it dries much more easily than when suspended on a hook. These bars were formerly of nickel, but now bars of glass and porcelain are very much used. It is important to have these bars of just the right length for space where they are to be put, and preferably they should never be put over or alongside the bath-tub, because in bathing, especially with a spray, one is apt to wet the towels, hanging on them. They should be placed as near the toilet bowl as possible, and as far away as possible from the tub.

Another modern convenience of the bathroom is the towel basket, which should be of nickel wire, or of wicker. This is not a large hamper, but simply a wire basket in which the soiled towels are put and from which they can be taken every day.

Of toothbrush racks and tumbler holders we have an infinite variety to choose from. There are plain holders for one glass only, combination holders for the glass and several toothbrushes and various other combinations.

Plate glass shelves are being used more and more. The best of these is fitted with a small inch-high railing so that the bottles, etc., will not fall off. These shelves come in various lengths and are very attractive and convenient for holding toilet waters and creams.

Other valuable pieces of equipment are the square bottles, which come in sets of four to twelve, all lettered in black with the names of the liquids they are designed to hold—"peroxide," "alcohol," "witch hazel," etc.

While tile is being used for the floor of the bathroom in many expensive homes, it is cold to the feet unless supplied with small bath rugs. A new cement material, which can be colored various shades, is now being used extensively for the floor covering. Even a good linoleum is preferable to any wood floor, which absorbs moisture and becomes badly discolored. Tile is also used for wall treatment, but attractive bathroom walls may be developed in washable paint or washable oilcloth paper, which comes in extremely attractive designs for this very purpose.

"With the aid of a hand mirror you can still make your toilet very satisfactory."
Photograph Posed by MISS ARLINE CHASE at CAMPBELL STUDIO.

The ideal of the bathroom should be sanitation with easy cleaning, and this should apply to the wall, to the floor covering and to all the equipment.

The color scheme of the bathroom should be carefully considered by those who are in a position to control it in any way. Blue and green seem to be generally chosen, but unless they are of just the right tint, both are apt to be "chilly," and who wants to be in a chilly bathroom on a chilly morning? There is a great deal said in favor of tones of yellow for bathrooms, or even tones of soft rose, which with white trimmings is both picturesque and charming. If blue or green is chosen, let it not be a hard cold shade, but one which is warm in tone.

Because toilet operations require the best possible light we cannot be too careful in planning the lighting of the bathroom. For a large bathroom one bulb of indirect light is excellent. If supplemented by a small bulb of high power casting its light directly on the mirror, indirect lighting gives sufficient, soft light without shadows. Even with one central bulb hung from the ceiling, in the ordinary bathroom, it is necessary to have a side-bracket, and, indeed, many of the most attractive bathrooms are seen to have wall brackets at either side of the mirror.

While many women do not like a "shower bath," a shower installation is often preferable to the regular tub, from the standpoint of economy and space saving. A shower costs about half, and takes about one-half the floor space of a tub. It therefore appeals strongly to the small house builder. The shower also offers many hygienic advantages, because its temperature can be controlled quickly, with sudden changes from hot to cold, so desirable in therapeutic treatments; also, for boys and children, the quick shower is more healthful than a full tub-bath. There is a "breeze" to a morning shower without the "chill" of getting into a tub of cold water, and it is capable of many more adaptations than the ordinary tub.

Beauty's Dressing Table

By Lina Cavallieri
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

EVERY woman who gives her complexion the right care has to spend many hours at her dressing table. This should be low, so you can sit before it with comfort. It should be wide, and long, and flat, so that it may hold all of those accessories of the toilet which a woman wants within reach as she sits before her mirror.

First of all, it should have a large mirror and a good one; a just mirror, but not a merciful one, that will reveal every blemish, but will not exaggerate it. The faults of our faces trouble us enough without being exaggerated by our mirrors. Money spent on a good mirror will yield you a good return in honestly showing you how you look. If you know exactly how you look you can build upon that foundation of knowledge a new and better appearance.

Being sure, then, that your mirror is reliable, place it where it will have the very best light in the room. This should be opposite, if possible, but certainly near to the window. The best light for writing is the best light for dressing. The light should fall over the left shoulder. Arrange your electric lights, or candles, or lamps, or gas jets, or whatever are your lighting facilities, so that the light will fall in that direction. Don't dress by a poor light any more than you would read or write by a poor light.

The mirror should be as large as possible and should be adjustable. Attached to supports on the table, it should be easily swung back and forth, according to the angle of view you wish to get upon yourself.

Even if the table be of the plainest sort of home manufacture the table and the mirror frame should be white. The best effect of cleanliness and cleanliness is given by a white table and mirror frame. Spots and stains can be more easily removed from it. Some young women have a fancy for draping their dressing tables in muslin or silk, tied back with ribbons, or in silk finished by tassels of the same shade, each to match the curtains at the windows and the draperies of the bed.

Personally I prefer the white painted or enameled dressing table to any other. Draperies are attractive and elegant, but I can't help but see their other significance—that of dust traps. So in furnishing rooms I try to put the money into rich woods and rugs and shag draperies as much as I possibly can.

If the owner's means permit it a duplex or triple mirror is better than a single one. I would allow the young woman at her toilet literally to see herself as others see her. She should study her profile and note whether her cheeks are growing too plump or too thin. She should see whether the lines of her countenance are as becoming to her sides as in front. She should study her shoulders and learn whether they are too lean and need fattening, or too fat and require thinning. One is just as important as the other. Having once dressed before a duplex or triple mirror you will never be without one I am sure.

But if yours is a good single mirror you can still make your toilet very satisfactorily with the aid of a hand mirror. This will be a little longer time enable you to scrutinize your profile and back successfully, instead of seeing all three views of your head at once.

On most dressing tables we see a brush and comb. This is the worst possible place for them. Perhaps they are there merely for ornament, to complete a handsome ivory or silver or gold set and give the spectator a sense of the completeness of the table furnishings. But the comb and brush that are in use should be carefully kept in a drawer of the dressing-table, or in a closet, or in one of the medicine chests with which all sanitary bathrooms are now supplied.

After using them and before putting them away be sure to cleanse them. If you neglect this your combing and brushing might almost as well not have been done, for the dust in your hair has been merely shifted to your comb and brush, and unless removed by cleansing will simply once more be transferred to the hair.

The toilet table should be furnished also with a tray or box containing the manicure utensils. The orange wood stick, especially, should be ready for cleaning the nails and pushing back the skin that is anxious to encroach upon the nails.

One of the toilet bottles on my dressing table I always keep filled with rosewater. This is soothing when the face is fevered and is always grateful and healing to the skin.

In one of the little silver or ivory or enameled boxes of which a toilet table cannot have too many there should be a little powdered pumice stone. When the daily scrutiny reveals dark stains upon or between the teeth, apply this pumice stone by dipping an orange wood stick or a hard, round toothpick into it and gently rubbing with them the stained surface. Never use an ordinary toothpick for this purpose, because this would scratch the tooth and erode the enamel.

SHANGHAI-NANKING LINE

Sunday Special Leaves Shanghai North for Henli, Kunshan, Soochow and Wushu as under:

	Up train	Down train
Shanghai North	dep. 8.20 a.m.	Wushu dep. 17.30 p.m.
Henli	arr. 9.24	Soochow " 18.15 "
Kunshan	" 9.34	Kunshan " 18.55 "
Soochow	" 10.28	Henli " 19.13 "
Wushu	" 11.23	Shanghai North arr. 20.10 "

Return Fares Including Famine Relief Tax.

	I class	II class	III class
Shanghai-Henli	$3.40	$1.80	$0.90
Shanghai-Kunshan	3.40	1.80	0.90
Shanghai-Soochow	5.40	2.90	1.60
Shanghai-Wushu	7.40	4.10	2.10

Breakfast is served on the outward journey, tiffin can be ordered on the car in the Railway siding at Henli, and dinner is obtainable on the train during the return trip. Breakfast 75 cents, tiffin $1.50 and dinner $1.50 each.

This excursion affords an excellent opportunity of getting away from town for a day into the beautiful country-side during the best period of the year.

The 10 hours at Henli give ample time for rowing, swimming, or houseboat enjoyment.

At Kunshan the 9 1/2 hours can be enjoyably spent in visiting the Gardens and Pagodas. The latter stand on the summit of Kunshan Hill, inside the city walls and can be reached in half an hour by rickshaws or by walking through the city from Kunshan station.

Soochow is noted for the well kept Private Gardens and also Tiger Hill with its Pagoda on the top, and 5 hours between the arrival and departure of the Sunday Special can be well spent in seeing these places. The city temple and silk shops inside the city are also well worth a visit. There are several Hotels at Soochow, at which foreign food is served.

Wushu city is a great silk center, and the 6 hours before the train is due to return can be filled by taking a trip to Wei Hill, two miles from Wushu Station, which can be easily reached by rickshaws, sedan chair or boat in the course of an hour. Those who climb to the top of the Hill will be rewarded with a magnificent view of Wushu city, and the Great Ta Hu Lake.

Time-tables and copies of illustrated pamphlets giving full information in regard to the above, and other points of interest can be obtained on application at the Enquiry Office Shanghai North. Seats on the train can be reserved by telephoning North 3199.

China Trade Act

(Washington Correspondence of the Analyst, May 2)

HERE appears to be an excellent chance of the so-called China Trade act, for which many representatives of business have put up a hard fight in the past, becoming law early in the present Congress. A strong drive to obtain legislation of this kind is now being made, and consideration of the Dyer bill, which was adopted by the House in the last session but failed to reach consideration by the Senate, has received preference in the House, debate on the Naval Appropriation bill having been interrupted for that purpose. That in itself was extremely favorable, as it was one of President Harding's recommendations that the appropriation bills be got out of the way without unnecessary delay.

The act has the endorsement of Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Its purposes are (1) to promote trade and commerce with China and create and develop markets in China for articles of commerce exported from the United States; (2) to provide a means whereby citizens of the United States may form corporations therefor; (3) to regulate such corporations as to keep them at all times in control of individuals who are citizens of the United States; and (4) to provide for the proper conduct of such corporations.

In recommending the adoption of the bill, the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives which had conducted an investigation into the facts, made some interesting declarations. Before the European war there were only three or four important American firms located in China, and our percentage of China's foreign trade amounted to but 4 percent, the balance going to Great Britain, Germany, France, and Japan, with small amounts to various other countries. Under the stimulus of the war and also due to the fact that European markets were closed, American merchants were able to gain a substantial foothold in the foreign commerce of China, our percentage at the present time being about 17 percent, or $287,000,000 for the year 1919. The number of American firms interested in China as indicated in the membership of the American Chamber of Commerce of China at Shanghai, has increased from 43 in 1915 to 313 in 1920.

The committee found that the difficulties of these American firms now engaged in the China trade are largely due to the fact that China is an extrajurisdictional country, which means that all foreign merchants doing business in China must, by treaty, do so under their own laws and regulations. This is due to the fact that the young Republic of China has not yet codified her laws and modernized her courts to the extent that foreigners may become subject to them. Practically every country interested in China trade, and this applies especially to our strong competitors, has adopted special laws for the control and promotion of its business in China. America never does this, and as a result, American companies doing business in China are subject to the conflicting corporate regulations of the various forty-eight States and our Territories. This factor, it is found by the committee, handicaps us specifically as follows:

First—There is no uniformity, none of the State laws being adapted to foreign trade purposes and, several of the State incorporation laws being lax, they permit the promotion of a great deal of undesirable business very damaging to our prestige with the Chinese business men.

Second—Our chief competitors in China are the British, Japanese and French, who have enacted special regulations governing their companies in China, exempting them from the operation of home income and excess profits taxation. This places the American firm at a disadvantage, since it cannot build up the necessary reserve to carry over the years of depression and uncertainty.

Third—The operation of the home income and excess-profits taxation under the various State regulations, upon our companies in China, prevents the Chinese business men from forming joint enterprises with American business men. The Chinese are now striving to develop their country industrially and are anxious to co-operate with American merchants who are experienced in the management of industries on a modern basis. Since this Chinese capital coming into an American company is taxed the same as the American capital, the Chinese are forced to invest in British and Japanese companies, thus throwing the resulting purchases of equipment and other business to those countries instead of the United States. The British have taken advantage of this desire of the Chinese business men for Western experience and management and have built up much of their great business in China by attracting Chinese capital. The lack of a uniform, high standard American corporation law governing our business in China debars us from this partnership with the Chinese, and this co-operation is the outstanding element in the new development of China.

Since China is the only country where we operate to any great extent under extrajurisdictional treaties, a general law, it is held, will not and cannot solve the problem of American business development in China. Furthermore, the present period of depression combined with famine conditions in China will not permit delay if we are to hold our position and take advantage of Chinese friendship for American and American institutions. If we cannot obtain the assistance our trade is certain to recede to the unimportant position it occupies before the war.

The recent revival of American trade with China may mislead some to think commercial relations with that country are of short standing. Such a supposition is not borne out by history. One hundred and forty three years ago an American ship visited Canton, China, with such good results that a regular trade followed. American clipper ships were an important factor in the commerce of China from the visit of that first vessel in 1778 to 1860 when our commerce was driven from the seas by the development of the British merchant marine.

During the height of the period along about 1825 American ship pling and trade led in the Far East. China occupies a stretch of territory one-sixth larger than continental United States. Her population is four times as large as our population and her climatic conditions and natural resources are quite similar to ours. For years through the work of our mission aries and educators and the operation of our open-door policy, we have been building up a great asset of good-will toward America on the part of the Chinese people. The knowledge that America has no designs on their territory, and that the close commercial relations of the two Republics will do much to strengthen China and enable her more successfully to cope with the aggressors who do have designs on her territory.

The China Trade act, the committee holds, has the full support of our American officials who have worked so long and faithfully to cement the relations of the two countries. Dr. Reisch, for six years our Minister to Peking, supports this legislation constantly in dispatches to the State Department and gave testimony in its support.

Some idea of the importance of the China trade to America is given in the following figures of the trade between the two countries taken from the Chinese customs reports:

Tons.
1904	56,269,000
1909	65,054,000
1914	80,643,000
1919	211,000,000

This means that the trade between the United States and China has nearly quadrupled in fifteen years, and gives some idea of future possibilities if we can be placed on even footing with our competitors. American trade with China largely centers in Shanghai. The trade standing of the four principal nations in the Shanghai trade for 1919 also speaks eloquently for American enterprise in that part of the world. The figures are as follows:

United States	$194,906,000
Japan	156,832,000
Great Britain	129,147,000
France	45,607,000

In dealing with the Chinese people the committee holds, it is very important that the corporation should be authorized by the national Government instead of under the laws of some State. The Chinese as a rule are friendly to this country, but they know very little of our States and their system of laws.

Within its delegated powers, it is held, Congress has the undoubted right to pass laws to govern and to aid its citizens while in a foreign country. In the Edge law Congress authorized the creation of corporations with power to aid foreign commerce by loaning money or credit to the purchasers of American merchandise in foreign countries. In making such a loan these corporations are not engaged directly in the export or import trade, but they are aiding such commerce and serve as an instrument for that purpose.

The word "commerce" in the clause of the Constitution granting to Congress the power to regulate it has received the broadest possible construction, the committee asserts. It means not only commerce in its more limited sense, but intercourse. Corporations formed under this bill will be engaged as American citizens in dealing with the people of China, and the charters that are authorized will serve as instrumentalities for intercourse with the Chinese people. The framers of the Constitution no doubt intended that all power of intercourse with foreign nations and their citizens should rest with the Federal Government. The power to aid our citizens under circumstances such as this would seem to be an attribute of sovereignty possessed by every independent nation. This power clearly does not belong to the States. Under treaty with China we have a right to trade with that country and we have our own courts to administer American law there. Charters granted under legislation such as this not only grants a privilege but its effect, we have a right to believe, will be to govern our people in conducting business in China so as to protect them and to protect the Chinese people from being exploited by irresponsible persons. The adoption of this legislation, with its many salutary restrictions upon business methods, the committee contends, should tend to safeguard our own people and preserve the good-will of the people of China who will share with them in their enterprises and thus aid in building up and maintaining our foreign commerce with China.

Correspondence

Blackmailing Escaping Slaves
Editor, THE CHINA PRESS.

Dear Sir:—A few days ago, one of my Chinese helpers, whom we will call Miss K., accepted an invitation to address a woman's club at Changchow. When seated in the train, she noticed an agitated young Chinese girl enter, followed by a well-dressed man about forty years old who informed her:

"Now you may go back home to your two brothers, in peace and quiet."

Then, after a few words spoken in low tone which Miss K. did not catch, he held up four fingers in gesticulation saying, "Forty dollars will be enough," and went away.

Miss K. next noticed that the excited girl produced a roll of money which she asked an old woman to hold a few moments. Following close on this strange performance another man entered to asked the girl, "Where are you going?"

"Chinkiang," she faltered. He then called up an employee who furnishes tea on the train, and ordered him to look after her, as she had money.

When the train pulled out on the station, the frightened girl looked around for succor, and presently beckoned to Miss K., who went to sit beside her.

"I can see you are a teacher. Perhaps you will help me. I am running away from a brothel." And she told this story:

Two years before, her father's mother had taken her on a visit to Shanghai where she was left all unsuspecting at a vice resort. The woman then went home with four hundred new dollars in her bosom. The victim sighed as she continued her story:

"I can't sing well, and so I have had to work always in a third class brothel where we eat very much bitterness." She contrived to save, little by little, from her earnings one hundred dollars in two years, which she kept hidden from everyone, for her one desire was to escape. Not successful last week in soliciting, she had been cruelly beaten a number of times, and forced to kneel on broken crockery. In desperation she determined to run away. At the present time, tailors, who sleep by day, are employed as watchmen in brothels during the nights, while they sew on prostitutes' dresses. Early in the morning the young girl tried to steal away; but encountered the tailor to whom she offered a bribe of ten dollars. But he was not to be bought, and gave the alarm. Nevertheless she eluded capture rushing out into the street, followed by her owners. When about to be seized, she lay down on the pavement and screamed till a native policeman intervened, saying that the law gave her permission to leave the house; and with her acquiescence, he took her into custody. At the police station she was placed in a ricksha and sent unescorted to the Door of Hope.

Now she had heard very many tales of the tortures awaiting unfortunate women who enter that institution. They are burned, pieces of skin and even their sinews, are gouged out! Naturally enough the girl would not risk such a fate and begged the coolie to take her to the Shanghai and Nanking Railway Station.

Arriving there, a railway detective recognised her profession, and volunteered his assistance in buying a ticket.

"How much money have you," he asked. After she told him, he demanded forty dollars. She pleaded for smaller blackmail till he promised to consult with several associates. Presently he led her into the train; and it was this man whom Miss K. had noticed gesticulating with his four fingers, and saying that "forty dollars would be enough."

That was the prostitute's story. Miss K. is a zealous Christian, and felt, as she listened that the Lord had sent her to save this lost sheep, so she went straight to work at it. She first requested the old woman to return the roll of money. Reluctantly she produced it, after abstracting ten dollars cash. It was necessary that Miss K. leave the train at Changchow so as to fulfil her engagement at the Woman's Meeting. She suggested that the girl go with her and that after the meeting they take a later train to Chinkiang. The girl joyfully consented. But the train employee was of an entirely different turn of mind, and refused point blank to permit her to leave the train till she reached Chinkiang.

Miss K. was equal to the emergency. Having expressed her detestation of such exploiting, she gave him her name that of her Alma Mater, her profession, cited her connection with influential friends, and promised that widest publicity would be given this incident unless the girl were permitted to leave the train. The man then became ingratiating. He was an honest man. Personally, he never blackmailed. He would help them both, but requested Miss K. not to reveal the matter otherwise he would incur the vengeance of the S. N. R. detective, who might even charge him with opium smuggling.

Miss K. took her charge on to Changchow, and after the meeting, in company with a missionary, they made the journey to Chinkiang. By this time the girl was fully persuaded that skin and sinews would be safe at the Door of Hope. She became even anxious to enter. Moreover she felt sure that Miss K. could deliver her from the snares of railway servants and detectives and wanted to return at once. But Miss K. had lost her nerve, and preferred leaving her safe in a Christian home until some foreigner could bring her to safe haven at the Paoshan Road Home.

I feel constrained to give this incident publicity through your paper. Sometime ago, my attention was called to the large number of tailors' signs in the Red Light district. Evidently the craftsman's needle is plying to sew together the seams of Shanghai life, and hide it away from public gaze. The police might be informed of this fact. Again, while commending that native policeman who made this girl's escape possible, one cannot help criticising the station police in sending her to the Door of Hope with no responsible escort. Last of all, I would like to suggest that one beautiful kind of social service would be to support an alert, sympathetic conscientious woman at the Railway Station, to help girls in distress, without exacting forty dollars worth of blackmail. Sincerely yours,

LAURA M. WHITE.

Problems Of Balkanised Europe

Balkanised Europe, A Study in Political Analysis and Reconstruction. By Paul Scott Monnier. New York, E. P. Dutton and Co.

Recent developments ought to have taught us that we must look on the condition of the rest of the world with our own eyes, and from our own point of view; and yet our point of view is not to be trusted until we have learned how to use our own eyes. Hitherto, we have been looking at Europe through spectacles supplied by persons who have taken advantage of our inability to get away from preconceived notions. We have naturally believed that the term "democracy" in other countries—meant an ardent desire for justice and equal opportunities to all, irrespective of nationality.

It is hard for us to believe that the various countries in Europe are not essentially actuated by a desire to help one another, that they are not willing to make sacrifices of commercial advantages, or even of territories in the interests of a universal peace. Propagandists who desire that we shall be drawn into world entanglements in their own interests have made no attempt to broaden our views or to illuminate them.

Mr. Paul Monnier understands this. He says:

"Every people, in its domestic affairs, realises the necessity of accepting the reality of questions of passion and even of personalities; a certain school of practical politicians will even insist that these are the only realities. Yet in international affairs it is assumed, particularly by Americans and English contemporaries, that nations will always act reasonably in accordance with their material interests. For example, when the covenant of the League of Nations was being drafted both the British and the American delegations were of the opinion that economic penalties applied to offenders would be sufficient for any eventuality, and only the French, with their deeper psychological insight, opposed this view. The inclination to fix the attention on economic to the detriment of political considerations has marked nearly all Anglo-Saxon thought concerning European reconstruction. This same bias is impressed deeply into the organisation of the American Department of State, which receives economic reports of the first quality from a highly trained Consular and commercial corps, but which provides no adequate machinery for the accumulation of foreign political information."

We seem to believe that to give a nation material comfort, each individual of that nation an opportunity to seek happiness according to his capacity, to teach him that body lice are not preservatives from disease, to draw him from the ranks of the illiterate, will make him a true democrat! Political considerations, local prejudices and hatreds, jealousy of the races across his frontier, and a desire to extend his own frontier will at once disappear! It is time that Americans, if they really desire to save themselves from dangerous and ridiculous entanglements, began to learn something of the psychology of Europe, especially of Balkanised Europe, on which many political questions today depend.

What we call "Balkanisation" is the creation of a mixture of small States, each hating or fearing the other, and, above all, the greater nations whose interest is still to divide them and conquer. This ill-assorted medley has its doctrinaire showmen, who point to the case where the so-called happy family because we expect too much from the sweet hope expressed by Mr. Ford's peace party that all wars might be ended by the idealistic voyage was not more unreasonable than the belief, in which most of us indulge, first, and with disgust afterward.

OLD COMMANDERS' YARNS

(The late Admiral Lord Fisher)

"My very best friends are Americans.

My only son married an American lady (which rejoiced me). I had such a time in America when I went over to the wedding! I never can forget the hospitality, so boundless and sincere!

The American barber on board the "Baltic" told me a good story.

He was barber in the train from Chicago to New York that never stops 'even for a death' (so he told me) when the train suddenly stopped at a small village and a lady got out.

Mr. Thompson, the President of the Railway, was in the train, and asked why?

The conductor showed an order signed by a great man of the Railway to stop there.

When Mr. Thompson got to New York he asked this great man: 'What excuse?' and added, 'I wouldn't have done it for my wife!'

And the answer he got was—'No more would I!'

Good stories, like cigarettes, should be passed round.

become more and more under the influence of Great Britain, she would throw off even that influence if it should interfere with her determination to use both France and Germany for her own purposes.

Mr. Mowrer predicts, on the basis of Italy's opportunism, that there will be a future Italo-British combination. He is a practical constructionist. He believes that the fourteen nations who have joined the League will not abandon it, even if we should abandon it. He holds that less emphasis should be placed on the executive side of the League and more on the legal side. His conclusion is that we have very good reason to adopt the famous covenant with reservations and without delay.

Whatever objections there may be to some of the statesmen in "Balkanised Europe," and the very discussion of these objections will do good, it is the best manual of reference for Americans who desire to know why we do not understand Europe, and why Europe does not understand us.

Problems Of Balkanised Europe

that the ills of suffering Europe can be cured radically by carloads of food, farm implements and the other material necessities of life.

Mr. Mowrer convincingly shows us that this conception of ours is wrong—that each nation, while accepting our aid, not always with gratitude, is sure that we do not in the least understand those particular problems on which its national life depends. And, what is worse, we seem to look on these problems with a certain condescension. They are not by any means certain that we are not flooding them with milk and honey for some ulterior political purpose of our own. "The Austrians," Mr. Mowrer says, "consider Vienna to be the logical economic and political center of Europe. If their problems were solved, all would be solved. The Czechs feel the same way about Prague, and the Magyars about Budapest. All three of these cities are near enough to the middle of the continent to lead color to the pretensions of their inhabitants. Warsaw and Bucharest, though separated by more than six hundred miles, are both 'the key to Eastern Europe,' and the Eastern European problem is considered by Eastern Europeans to be the touchstone on which depends the future of modern civilisation. Bucharest, being placed, by its geographical position, in a double relation, is also felt to be 'the key to the Balkans'—a preeminence which is equally claimed by Belgrade, Sofia, Athens and Constantinople. The disconcerting element is, that in each of these claims there is just enough truth to justify the pretension; and he would be an overbold critic who should venture to deny a certain fundamental importance to a single one of these countries. At the same time, the persistent refusal of each to share the dignity of pre-eminence with any of the others is a bit delirious. And one wonders whether at heart they are not governed by hidden misgivings. Peoples, like the English or the French, who are really convinced by long tradition and experience of their own superiority, are content to let it be taken for granted without making a stir."

Again, as Mowrer points out, the United States has given invaluable assistance to several of the smaller States, not only to feed, clothe and teach their inhabitants the principles of sanitation, but in lending to them practical engineering experts. Some of them even resent this because it is accomplished by advice. "Advice may be exactly what these countries need; it is the last thing they want. They will solicit loans of money or raw stuffs, but they do not want to be told how they shall employ them." They are willing at any moment to turn against even the candid friend who attempts to balk their national aspirations or to show them that they are not invariably right. In a word, we understand as little of the psychology of these people as the ruling English in the days of Spenser understood the "meer" Irish or as, indeed, the ruling English of today understand them.

Poland and Austria are starving. Vienna seems to be lost in despair; but the other countries in the "Balkanised" territory are beginning to take care of themselves, thanks very largely to the benevolence of our country; but our benevolence might be increased a thousandfold without touching the roots of evils which, unless some understanding process of reconstruction takes place, are bound to continue to keep bloody conflicts alive. And we must not imagine that the whole process of this reconstruction depends on us. In the first place, the Continental point of view of life is very different from ours—especially among the half Oriental peoples; their ideas of morality and material well-being would be amazing to us if we understood them.

The Puritan, confronted with the realization that to the Continental the sins of the flesh are trifling compared to the sins of the intellect, is no more shocked than most of us are when we discover that these foreign peoples would much rather have our political aid in their quarrels with their neighbors than our wheat and our advice. The Poles, for instance, while grateful enough for our material assistance, think that we sinned against the Holy Ghost when we refused to give them sufficient aid against those enemies of God and Poland—the Bolsheviks. The Greeks are irritated because they seem to think that we join with the Allies in considering them incapable of choosing their own form of government or that we are "Bulgaphole." Even the Rumanians are beginning to feel that America so despises them that it believes that they—the noblest of nations!—can live by bread alone.

Mr. Mowrer is the first well-informed writer on European affairs to point this out clearly and emphatically; and he elaborates his thesis most conclusively. He knows that the Entente is dead; he knows, too, that Russia is Germany's one great hope. She is Germany's, even in anarchy, provided that Russia is kept from further union with France or England; and nearly every German in his heart holds that Russia must for the safety and aggrandisement of Germany, become either an enforced or voluntary ally. Germany will have none of Poland, and Russia must be kept inimical to Poland. And we know exactly by this time what German republicanism means: it was assumed to placate President Wilson, and now that it has failed to placate the Allies, it remains a thing of threads and patches, to be thrown off when the more comfortable garment of monarchism can be in most of its States safely assumed. The majority of the Hungarians are Royalists, and, while democracy is useful as a phrase, they do not in the least attempt to understand our meaning of it.

Mr. Mowrer is right, and he proves that he is right, when he assumes that the Bolshevik terror is dissolving. It was obvious five months ago that the rulers of Russia expected to make an advance on Poland, in the certain hope of conquering Finland and Sweden and beginning the domination of the rest of the northern world. Italy at that time seemed to be theirs. Their propaganda had so honeycombed it, they thought, that at the given word Italy would become absolutely Soviet; this was an axiom. They even believed that the Labor Party in England was entirely destructive of the existing order of things; and they deceived themselves into the opinion that the great cities of the United States were rapidly coming under their domain. This illusion is passing.

The Russian people having, in the country, clutched the land, are willing to accept any stable Government that will allow them to retain it and assist them to cultivate it. Outside of the cities in all countries, the settling of the land question is the one thing that will insure a reasonable stability and contentment in the populations; and, even in the cities, when life becomes too difficult, Caesar himself may enter triumphantly, provided he brings bread and the circus—a phrase which includes a much broader meaning, according to our standards of living, than it did in old Rome.

We may gauge the courage of Mr. Paul Mowrer when he boldly speaks a good word for Ferdinand of Bulgaria. The chapter on "Bulgaria" is enlightening, especially in its statement of the relation of Macedonia to this very practical and sober nation, to which that on "Czechoslovakia" is a valuable pendant. In truth, "Balkanised Europe" is the best book that has been yet printed on the most important European conditions. It is hardly likely that any equally illuminating volume can take its place.

Mr. Mowrer rather apologizes for its being "journalistic." If "journalistic" means the clear statement of conclusions founded on the careful examination of facts, with utter fearlessness and a brave disregard of popular prejudices, it is a term for which no writer ought to apologise. It is necessary for the journalist to be clear and exact and without circumlocution. Mr. Mowrer possesses these qualities. One hears constantly the statement, "How ignorant Americans are of foreign affairs," and the answer is generally "How can Americans be informed on foreign affairs in the multitude of conflicting teachings?" This reproach and its answer will disappear if our countrymen will examine and weigh the facts and their deductions presented in this book.

It would be well for the reader in search of exact information to ponder on Mr. Mowrer's chapter on "Aspects of British Foreign Policy." It contains many valuable lessons for our compatriots in admiration for a system that leaves as little as possible to chance. It is almost invariably and scornfully asserted that the English Foreign Office failed in its diplomacy when it did not prevent the late war. Are we quite sure that certain eminent statesmen in Great Britain looked on a struggle between Russia and Germany as altogether undesirable? It might have been possible to stave off German aggression; but what sane man could dream that the Russian would ever give up the hope of entering Sancta Sofia in triumph? At any rate, Mr. Mowrer is right in emphasising the boldness of British foreign policy. Great Britain is more influential than ever in Persia.

"She has encouraged the independence of the Baltic and Caucasian States, has encouraged her ally, Japan, to occupy Eastern Siberia, has assisted the expansion of her ally, Greece, straight across the Balkan Peninsula, so as to protect Constantinople from the Slavs on the north, and in general has tended more and more to detach herself from the various Slav States—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria—and to favor rather their rivals—Germany, Hungary, Austria, Greece, Italy."

Mr. Mowrer's notions of certain aspects of Italian foreign policy will not be received in all quarters with approval. Italy, he says, is afraid of France and Yugoslavia; she will not brook rivals either in the Mediterranean or in the Adriatic; she is working for the restoration of Germany and for the union of Germany and Austria. She will have none of an Austria-Hungary which would include Yugoslavia; she must be cautious, because she has suffered more than any allied country from the effects of the war. Although she is likely to

VAULT 11 FT., 6

Moore, Cornell Man,
Leads Shot Putters;
Orientals Star

In telling the story of the first day of the open international track and field meet, one might resort to the trite and hackneyed details of the East meeting the West or remind one's readers of the backward Oriental.

But a glimpse at the feet of Porterfield, the sturdy Dane, or the Filipino and Japanese hurdlers convinces that the Oriental is not too backward in coming forward to meet a thin tape stretched across the finish line.

The plucky Westerners shone more or less in the weight events with Moore, an ex-Cornell man, leading in the shot put, and Bob Mack, tooting the discs 108 feet and some inches but in the other events where the feet were kept on the ground and in the events where the rules stated that the entrant must hop over a piece of wood stretched between two standards, said backward Oriental did fairly well. One Porterfield, who hovers over a microscop in the biology lab at St. John's during working hours, and does a little baseball in Shanghai for recreation, leaped five feet and a half in the high jump and qualified for the finals in the pole vault with a mark of 11 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

CATALON DUE TO REPEAT

The finals in the sprints today will be another brace of battles between Catalan, Castillon and Gage and if the Japanese dash man gets a decent start, he should press Castillon for second place. Catalan will win both races unless he breaks a leg. Catalan is about the finest human ever seen in action in this International Settlement, in the way of a sprinter. He has almost perfect action, a beautiful leg and arm drive and a leap for the tape that reminds one of Ralph Craig or Charlie Paddock. In his semi-final yesterday he loafed for 50 yards and was in danger at 80. He then cut loose, won by several feet and broke the tape in 10 3/5 seconds. He should run in even today. Castillon rates one, fifth of a second behind. Sereid and Marshall, two local men, are in the finals.

Okasaki won the mile yesterday with his team mates, Toda and Hasumi, following him in. The crack Japanese mile runner, today, 4:49 3/5 and did not seem to be in as good shape as he was on the wet track Monday. Koupchinsky, the Harbin Sporting Club entrant, led up to the last 600 yards and then the Japanese left him.

Max Chaplin, from "somewhere in Anhwei" ran the 440 yard dash chasing the Filipino to a 53 4/5 quarter. Chaplin lost out in the last 50 yards and something could be written about old age waiting on youth: Chaplin may show better today although he is in fact, company with Dano and Lopez winning their heats.

Duran and Leimanshtein, the latter from Harbin, followed Lopez home with Shimamura and Daviddek qualifying in the heat won by Dano.

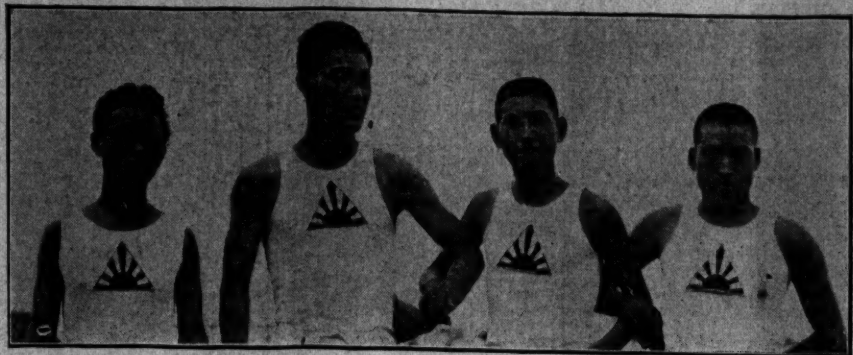

The low hurdles assumed a Philippine shade and the Islanders are good for two places, with Watanabe of Japan taking second. Watanabe is a perfect hurdler who does not know how to start and is a little slow between jumps. He tops the timbers in his style, though.

PORTERFIELD SURPRISES

Willard M. Porterfield, mentioned above as a biologist, gave a little surprise party to many of his friends by his showing in the high jump and the pole vault. W. F. Roberts, it might be mentioned, teaches theology at St. John's University, is one of Shanghai's best golfers and is a crack tennis player. This is history of course but the news prompts us to write that Rev. W. F. Roberts also qualified in the pole vault yesterday. The two professors from St. John's may chase Alo up to heights yet unapproached by a Far Eastern athlete. Carlos and Lactawain are also in the pole vault final while four Chinese and a Filipino will fight it out.

The Japanese Marathoners

Here are the four Japanese who raced 25 miles yesterday, running from Hongkew Park to Woosung and back. The men from left to right are: Imagawa, the fourthman home; Mogi, who was second; Yashima, who took third place, and Hasegawa, the winner. Hasegawa's time was 2 hours, 37 minutes, 16 4/5 seconds.

Matsuzawa Wins Mile
Open International Swim;
Haneda Takes The HalfOnly Japanese Enter For Longer Events; Philippines Get
The 200-Yard Relay

Interest had apparently petered out quite a lot in the swimming contests held in connection with the Far Eastern Games, for there was rather a meagre attendance at the Municipal tank last night to witness the concluding stages of the open international championships.

It is by no means easy to stage events of this kind within the restricted time limit at the disposal of those who organised the championships, and it is hard to expect men to swim the final of a half-mile race and then blithely enter for the heats of the mile championship. Accordingly, as only Japanese swimmers were interested in the former event, they decided among themselves to let matters stand as they were at the end of the two preliminary heats, and the first two men in the faster heat were awarded the first and second places in the championship, the winner of the slower heat getting third place in the championship.

RACES ARE CLOSE

The races were very close affairs in some instances; thus, in the 50 yards Brodie and Abreo tied for third place, and will decide who is to get the bronze souvenir by lot. In the 100 yards Mears and Ong Sing Guan tied for second place, but they decided to swim off the tie, with the result that Mears got the verdict, doing the distance in the same time as the winner of the original 100 yards race, viz. 64 seconds even time (registered by Siemssen).

Then again, the 200 yards relay race was well contested; Japan, leading for a couple of men, was eventually displaced by the Philippines, and in the closing stages of the race Fetherstonhaugh, representing the local Rowing Club, made up a lot of lee way and only just lost second place for his side by a mere touch. The local International Swimming Club were quite outclassed. The time of the Islanders was excellent—1 m. 52 3/5 s. for the 200 yards, or an average for each man of the four over the 50 yards of 28 seconds.

MATSUZAWA WINS MILE

For the open International

T. HASEGAWA, OF JAPANESE TEAM,
WINS MARATHONWinner's Teammates Finish
Few Yards Behind, All In Good Condition

Winning by about 500 yards T. Hasegawa smilingly broke the tape in front of the grandstand at Hongkew Park yesterday evening, the victor in the 25-mile marathon held in connection with the Far Eastern Championship games. Hasegawa, incidentally, made it possible for Japan to win its first championship in the Far Eastern Olympic of 1921.

The sturdy lad was fresh as a daisy as he crossed the finish line at the end of the gruelling run, which started at Hongkew Park, went three laps around the track and then sent the runners clear to Woosung and return.

Four minutes behind Hasegawa came Z. Mogi, and ere he had completed his final lap around the track which meant the end of the long grind, K. Yashima, the third man home, and T. Imagawa, fourth to finish, were on the cinder track. Yashima was the only man who showed signs of fatigue, but he, as did the others, finished with a sprint that brought cheers for the plucky Japanese from the big crowd.

It was the first real marathon that Shanghai had seen and the runners were given a big reception all along the line of the long route. Incidentally it may be the last, for at the meeting of the Far Eastern Athletic Association, by a vote of two to one, it was decided to eliminate the event at future Far Eastern championships.

Japan voted to retain the event but China and the Philippines demurred. In all probability the race will be run as the Far Easterners are now a definite part of the World Olympic program.

The four Japanese were the only entrants in yesterday's grind and the first three broke the tape within seven minutes of one another.

The men, after going three laps around the cinder track in the stadium, left by the main gate and went along the following route: North Szechuen Road to Dixwell, Unga, East Yalu, Tungchow, East Yuhang, Chaofong Roads, Broadway East, Yangtsepo Road, Pingliang Road to Woosung military road, then going to 4,000 feet this side of the Naval Hospital and returning to Hongkew Park, where they completed one lap, finishing at the 120 yard hurdle finish mark.

Australians Get
362 Runs Against Cambridge Team

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 2.—In genial summer weather, and on a good wicket, the Australians today resumed their first innings against Cambridge University (which stood at 107 for 3 wickets over-night) and were all out for 362. Pellew made 146, which included one six and 21 fours, giving altogether three chances in two hours and ten minutes' play. Andrews contributed 59.

Cambridge, in their second innings, compiled 111 for seven wickets before close of play. The attendance numbered about 7,000.

In other first-class matches concluded today, Yorkshire beat Derbyshire by an innings and 112 runs; Lancashire beat Sussex by nine wickets, and Gloucestershire beat Glamorganshire by an innings and 191 runs.

TADURAN, FILIPINO

At Manila

SCORE IS 775 POINTS

Sato, Japanese, Gets Second
With Former Champ
Third

Making 22 points better than any previous record, Juan K. Taturan, the great Filipino all-around athlete, won the decathlon and finished his second half yesterday in convincing style.

Taturan's mark was 775. Chu En-te's score, made at Manila two years ago was 753 and it was believed that the mark would stand the onslaught of Oriental athletes for some time. Taturan upset the dope.

Sato of Japan, of whom more will be heard in future Far Eastern championships, finished second in the event, and he, too, broke Chu En-te's record. Sato was in second place at the end of the first half of the all-around competition and held his position yesterday by his hurdling and running of the mile.

Third place went to the deposed champion, Chu En-te, and Chu was far from being in the condition he was in when competing at the Manila Far Easterns. In Manila he went his mile in 5:07 under a noonday sun. Yesterday he did the four laps in 5:22 2/5.

The only other man that completed the Decathlon was Aoki of Japan. Also saved his strength for the open championship games by dropping out from the last event, the mile, while Mihashi, who led his team mates in the first half of the game on Thursday, did not show up yesterday.

DELEGATES MEET
TODAY TO FORM
CHINESE A. A. U.Plan Organisation To Unify
Athletics Throughout Country

Delegates from various sections of the country will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. to consider the formation of a Chinese Amateur Athletic Union, a step which should have an important bearing upon the future of athletics in the Flowery Kingdom.

The idea of such a union is to bring about uniformity in the rules governing different branches of sport throughout the country, thus simplifying the problem of putting teams into the field for competitions such as the Far Eastern Games and standardising athletics generally.

Mr. E. W. Clark, of Pootung, who was in charge of the Chinese team which went to the Philippines for the Olympic games in 1919 and was one of the coaches for this year's China team, will occupy the chair at today's meeting.

TYAU IS LOSERFilipino Defeats Local Japanese
In Five Sets After Great Battle

BOTH AT TOP FORM

Match Goes To Manila Man
6-2, 1-6, 9-7, 5-7
And 6-3

BY W. S. A. POTT

In a game replete with long rallies and thrills, Fargas beat Tanaka yesterday afternoon in five sets, demonstrating thereby that he is the premier player of the Far Eastern Olympics for 1921.

The gallery was the largest on hand this week and was treated to a fine brand of tennis. The people came expecting to see a good match and they were not disappointed.

Fargas was a little late in putting in his appearance, but the match got under way shortly after three o'clock. Tanaka won the toss and elected to serve. There was a high wind blowing, which made lobbing and killing difficult, but both players gave a fine exhibition in spite of this handicap.

First Set

With 40 love on the first game, Tanaka double-faulted and Fargas brought the points to deuce, but Tanaka pulled the game out and led at 1-0. Fargas was also uncertain and gave a double-fault, but captured a deuce game with two pretty aces, one at the net and the other a clean pass down the side-line.

Tanaka again double-faulted and the Filipino broke through, coming to the net for two aces. He was playing his driving game instead of his chop and Tanaka was wild.

Fargas proceeded to capture the fourth game at love and then broke through again by good work at the net. With a commanding lead of 4-1, Fargas allowed Tanaka to break through, but then took the next two games and the set at 6-2. Tanaka could not seem to get going and the wind bothered him more than his sturdy opponent.

Second Set

Tanaka began serving and got away with the first game. Fargas was taking it too easily, and though he won his own serve on Tanaka's errors, the little Japanese promptly took ten straight points before Fargas knew it, and led at 4-1.

Tanaka was finding himself and getting excellent length on his drives, and Fargas lost confidence and made numerous mistakes. He could not retrieve himself and the Japanese player ran out the next two games and the set easily with the aid of a double-fault on the last game, score 6-1. In this set Fargas tried to beat Tanaka from the base-line which was an error in judgment, for the latter was too good for him at this game. Fargas's shots lacked depth and in the long exchanges he usually netted the ball or set it sailing out of the court.

Third Set

With the games one-all in the third set, Tanaka broke through on excellent play. Fargas should have returned the compliment; for he led at 40-0 on his opponent's serve, but he persisted on staying back with the result that Tanaka led at 3-1. Fargas was smiling but worried that he could not find his game, and he probably hung back on account of the wind that made overhead work difficult.

The Filipino took his serve, but the Japanese did likewise with a love game, and then broke through. The hopes of the Japanese supporters ran high and they were more vociferous than is appropriate at a tennis match.

But Fargas was not ready to concede the set, and changing his tactics and coming to the net at the right time broke through and then won his own serve, bringing the games to 5-4. Tanaka became rattled and gave two outs on the tenth game, so that the score went to 5-4.

Here the Japanese reasserted himself and with a nice pass down the side, assisted by an inexcusable net by the Filipino broke through. Each player seemed to be unable to take his own service, and the game went to 7-7. Fargas at last managed to win his serve with two clean passes, and led for the first time in the set. Tanaka yielded a double at a critical moment and dropped his serve once more and

JAPAN AND PHILIPPINES PLAY
FINAL GAMES OF SERIES TODAY;
PEKING MARINES WIN BY FORFEITShanghai Loses Semi-Final Game To Philippines; Score 3-2

Three championships at baseball may be decided at Hongkew park this afternoon—the Far Eastern Olympic title, the Open International Games championship and the Eastern World Series, for the championship of the Far East.

The first game will be called at 2:30 p.m. and will see the Diamond Osaka team representing Japan aligned against the Philippines, in the third game of their series, specially arranged to decide the Olympic title. This series now stands one game each by identical scores of 1-0 made in the double-header play of Wednesday.

The second game will be called at 4:30 p.m. with the fast Philippines team opposing the American Legation Guard (Marines) nine which won the right to compete in the Open Games final today by the forfeiture by the Japanese against whom they were scheduled yesterday.

Though the Japanese team forfeited their Open Games engagement to the Peking Marines yesterday by reason of their failure to play, and so were eliminated from the Open Games tournament, they will still have a nominal chance at the title. Should the Philippines win over the Marines today in the first game of the afternoon, and thus annex the Open Games title, then should Japan win the second game, and the series which carries the Olympic crown, the championship of the Orient will go with it. Should the Philippines lose their game with the Marines however, Japan will have an opportunity at the Olympic title only for the Open Games title will have gone to the Legation Guard, and the championship of the Far East will still undecided by virtue of Japan having failed to meet the Peking men.

Japan's forfeiture yesterday came as a surprise to all baseball followers excepting Japanese. A goodly number of American, Chinese, Filipino and other followers of the game were on hand for the first game, but only a few Nipponese were in the stands, contrary to custom established and maintained since the first day of the Olympics. The Japanese heretofore have filled the west stand solidly and the west field with the overflow, but yesterday a scant dozen were present. Japanese baseball followers must have known that Japan would not play else they would have been on hand to support them with their Banzais.

The Marine team was on hand in uniform ready and expecting to play, and at game time it was learned for the first time that the Japanese would not play, because, as the reason was given out, they wished to save their nine over in rest for today's play with the Philippines. There was an effort made to play a practice game between mixed teams comprising the thirteen men of the Marine group and reserves from the Philippines, but it failed. Shanghai was not yet on the field, and the effort was kept waiting an hour and a half before the second game could be started.

SHANGHAI'S LOST CHANCE

Shanghai had a promising chance at the Open Games championship yesterday afternoon, with the Philippines team weakened by substitutions of reserves due to minor injuries to first-string men, and a prospect of playing off in the finals today against the Legation men instead of fighting it off with the strong Japanese aggregation. But the old fault of not being able to "hit them where they ain't," coupled up with a few passed balls, a dropped fly, a balk, a fumble and what not sent local hopes flying skyward. Each team earned one run. Had there been perfect baseball Shanghai might have won by a 1-0 score, for Terry's balk figured on the one run that the Philippines earned.

Terry's balk which aroused so much discussion among the players and the fans came with a man on third, and the penalty was the free scoring of Hugo, the baserunner. A big howl and argument ensued, but Umpire Terry McGowan rightfully stuck to the balk and the privilege of Hugo to score. Terry was in the box, set in his habitual position to deliver the ball when Hugo started for home on a squeeze signal. Terry became excited and without taking the necessary step toward third made a big motion to throw to third. He saw his error when the ball was all but on its way and stepped out of the box. But it was too late then; the balk was called, and Hugo who saw it coming and had dashed back to third to be on the safe side, was allowed to score. The tally gave the Philippines the winning run. Terry was yanked after the man at bat had singled over Crow and Arlt took up the throwing job.

PLAY BY PLAY

First Inning

Philippines—Hugo waited for three balls and two strikes, then drove a grounder to Woods who juggled a while, then threw him out to Wilhoit. Platon fanned. Garcia walked and stole second. He went to third when Bristow furnished a pitched ball. Fernando also walked and proceeded on to second unplayed. Casemero dropped a little roller toward third just inside the foul line. Crow let it roll, depending upon the high wind to blow it foul. It did. And then Casemero fanned. No runs, no hits.

Shanghai—Hopkins asked a high one for an out to Casemero on the third base line. Merrill knocked a fast one to Laurie who fanned. It elicited a first for the second out. Bills doubled on a drive to center, but Wilhoit raised a high foul fly for Casemero. No runs, no hits.

Second Inning

Philippines—Pablo took first when Wilhoit fumbled his grounder, but went out trying to steal. Bristow to Bills, for a nice peg. Bills in taking the throw had his bonnet jarred loose and the Philippines seeing something fall started to hoot, but Sanman ruled that hats don't figure. Bernaldes and Contreras flied out to left and right respectively. No runs, no hits.

Shanghai—Smith doubled to center. Woods flied out to left and Crow went out Laurie to first, but advanced Smith a notch to third. Bristow drove a hot one at Laurie who partly knocked it down. Hugo scrambled up for the ball but in his hurry he booted it and Bristow galloped safely to first while Smith scored. Terry then fanned. One run, two hits.

Smith dropped Platon's fly, perhaps due to the high wind carrying the ball sideways and Hugo took second. Garcia walked and the bases were filled. Fernando flied out to Smith and Hugo started for home. The throw-in was high and Bristow failed to knock it down, the ball going to the stands. A ground rule allowed only Hugo to score. Casemero flied out to Hopkins. One run, no hits.

Shanghai—Hopkins knocked one at Contreras who got the put-out with a nice pick-up and one step to the bag. Merrill walked and stole second. Bills got first when

GOOD WEATHER FOR WEEK END, BOWLERS' HOPE

Club And Open Competitions Scheduled For Start

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY

Number Of Contestants This Year To Be As Large As Ever

BY THE SHOT

That much reviled individual, the clerk of the weather seems bent upon showing how genial he can be when he is in the mood. It is to be hoped he does not get offended as with the advent of June, both club and open competitions commence, as a matter of fact entries for the former close today so bowlers who have not yet entered had better get a move on.

I understand the entries will be as large as ever, mainly owing to a big effort set by the B.C. In the links, they are sending seven teams and for a club who, two years ago could just about manage two, it seems wonderful.

The Juniors will enter three links and though not numerically strong, they will make their presence felt in all three competitions.

A big entry may be relied upon from the Yangtseepoo and Lawu Bowls Clubs so that all we desire is decent weather.

In reference to the games played last week, the B.C. continued their winning sequence as we predicted, but by the margin of four points only. It was a good performance, nevertheless, as Yangtseepoo, at home is a hard team to beat.

The Sunday match between the Juniors and the S.L.B.C. was rather surprising, the former team winning handsomely. Only on one occasion have the Juniors overcome the big club and as that was four years ago the win was not out of the turn.

There was no fluke about the win either and the genial "skipper" Marshall said, they were outwitted on the day's play. He also remarked that it would not occur again but that's neither here or there. Good for you Juniors, stick together and keep it up.

Today the Juniors receive a visit from Yangtseepoo and there is no reason why they should not again win. They are sending out a strong team who will at any rate give a good account of themselves. The visitors will miss the services of Charlie Richards, who is at present bowling splendidly.

On Sunday there will be a big game between the combined links of each club.

The teams for today's match are:

China Beats Japan In Football Game

In a rough game China defeated Japan in the open soccer football championship tournament and thus cleared the decks for the game this afternoon against Great Britain. The latter team will include the pick of local players and the game, which starts at 3.30 o'clock, should be a hummer. A record crowd is expected.

The Chinese players were too rough yesterday in the game with the Japanese and the rooting was not too sportsmanlike. There was no need for the rough play, either, as the superiority of the Cantonese footballers was apparent.

Captain E. J. M. Barrett will referee today's game between Great Britain and China.

Aragon beat Tyan: 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.
Suarez and Fargas beat Wei and Ng: (default).

Owing to the length of the Fargas-Tanaka match the exhibition doubles match did not take place yesterday afternoon. This afternoon at three o'clock Messrs. Toussaint and Pott have consented to play two of the Filipinos in an exhibition match, as there is no other tennis scheduled.

Story Of Swift Progress Told In Decade's Record Of Athletics In China

First Interscholastic Meet Preceding Formation Of North China Federation Was Staged Back In 1909 At Tientsin

Following upon the conclusion of the greatest and most successful athletic meeting in the decade of history of the Far Eastern Games and at a time when China is about to take its place in world athletics with representation at future world Olympic games a survey of the growth and development of athletics among Chinese in recent years reveals how swiftly sports of all kinds have taken hold upon the student mind and how athletics in general now have spread virtually to all the schools of the country.

While some attention was given to athletics in the larger institutions of learning in North China in the opening years of the century it was not until 1909 that the first interscholastic meeting was held. This was held at Tientsin on invitation of the Y.M.C.A. there. At this first meeting athletes were entered from Peking, Tientsin, Tungchow and Paoingfu and Tsinhsing Union Arts College emerged as victor in the contests that were held.

THE SECOND MEETING
It was not until four years later, in 1913, that the next meeting was held at Peking. This meeting took place at the Temple of Heaven in preparation for the National Games which in turn were held in preparation for China's participation in the first Far Eastern Games at Manila. The meeting at Peking and that which followed are regarded as the first annual meetings of the North China Athletic Federation, though the federation did not come into existence until two years later. The meeting was won by Tsing Hua College.

The meeting that was held in 1914 at Tientsin was won by Tungchow Union Arts College. It was felt at that time that in order to standardize methods and correct certain abuses that had begun to develop in athletics that a central controlling body was needed and with that end in view a committee was appointed to draft a plan of organization for consideration the following year.

The constitution that the committee prepared was adopted the next year and the permanent organization of the North China Athletic Federation then came into being. Since then the constitution twice has been revised as experience revealed the need and it is now held to be a wholly workable instrument.

FEDERATION OFFICERS
The present officers of the federation are: President, Doctor King of Tsing Hua College; Vice President, L. C. Wu of Mukden; Secretary, Thomas Yuan of Peking; Treasurer, S. K. Chen of Peking. The Executive Committee is composed of the officers and Messrs. Y. C. Ku of Kaifengfu, C. T. Chao of Mukden, L. K. Tu of Tientsin, John Mo of Tsing Hua College and R. W. Clark of Paoingfu.

The present membership of the federation includes about fifty schools, colleges and athletic associations of the provinces of Chihli, Fengtien, Kirin, Heilungkiang, Shantung, Shaanxi, and Honan.

The meeting in 1915 was held in Tientsin and was won by the Nankai School of Tientsin. This same school also won the meetings of 1916 and 1917 which were held in Peking and Tientsin respectively.

The meeting of 1918 was marked by two innovations. First it was transferred for the first time to an inland city and second, the contestants were divided into two classes, college and middle school. This latter change proved so successful that it has been continued and the promoters of the federation regard it in particular as the one feature in which they have advanced beyond the rest of the country.

The 1918 meeting was held at Paoingfu and the championship in the college class was won by Tsing Hua College. The championship of the middle school class was won by the Paoingfu Yu Te School. Tsing Hua College also won the college meets of 1919 in Tientsin and 1920 in Peking. In the middle school class the Paoingfu Second Normal School won the 1919 meeting and the Tientsin Anglo-Chinese Academy the 1920 meeting.

SCOPE OF MEETINGS
While the main interest in the meets has been in track and field sports, championship tournaments generally are conducted also at the same time in basketball, tennis and other sports and in addition exhibition drills and gymnastic features are included. Seventeen colleges and 33 middle schools represented by 600 contestants took part in this year's meeting which was held at Mukden. Tsing Hua College won in the college class at this meeting for the fourth successive year, the Peking Higher Normal College taking second, the Methodist College of Peking third and the Nankai School of Tientsin fourth. The Yu Te School of Paoingfu carried off the middle school championship, second place being won by the Lu Ho Academy of Tungchow, third by the Tientsin Anglo-Chinese Academy and fourth by
